3 Vital Days Have Bearing On Parliament

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—(CP)—Something is bound to happen on one or more of three vital days which will affect the life of the present parliament and the trend of events in national politics.

The three days, now underlined on many a politician's calendar, are Jan. 29, nomination day for the Grey North by-election; Jan. 31, the day for the prorogation of parliament, and Feb. 5, polling day in the by-election.

Some of the things which may happen were undoubtedly discussed at yesterday's meeting of the cabinet. In particular, the ministers may have discussed what is to be said in the Speech from the Throne at the prorogation of parliament and whether it is to contain a statement that parliament will be dissolved and that the Grey North by-election will not be held.

Nomination day in Grey North assumes importance because of Prime minister Mackenzie King's recent mesage to the electors in that constituency where Defence Minister seeks a seat in the House of Commons and is opposed by Pro-

PARIS, Jan. 26.—(BUP)—The American Seventh Army completely restored their shaky lines in northern Alsace today, hurling the Germans back across the Moder river and breaking up their dangerous offensive on a 20-mile front westward from Haguenau.

The crackup of the German drive threatening the Alsatian capital of Strasbourg, reported in front dispatches late today, appeared to have robbed the Nazis of their only initiative on the western front, where there had been signs of a full-dress Allied offensive.

Ludwig Sertorius, Berlin military commentator, said today that present Allied regrouping likely were to be the preliminary to a major offensive, but it was not yet clear how or when it would begin.

To the south, a joint American-French attack carried to the village of Houssen, three miles north of Colmar, and that long-standing anchor of the German pocket in southern Alsace appeared threatened.

REACH ROER RIVER

At the other end of the front, British and American forces moved up to the Roer river on a 27-mile front northwest of Cologne.

Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's British Second Army forces closed on the Roer-Wurm river line which soon was expected to become

Reds Reach Baltic To Completely Seal Off East Prussia

By ROBERT MUSEL
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(BUP)—Marshal Stalin announced triumphantly tonight that the Red Army had barricaded the back door of East Prussia in a drive to the Baltic sea, trapping about 200,000 German defenders of the once proud Junker province.

Far to the southwest on the other wing of Stalin's historic winter offensive Soviet spearheads probed the German border area 90-odd miles east of Berlin in double flanking drives westward beyond beleaguered Poznan.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army plunged a spearhead to the Frisches Haff lagoon of the Baltic east of Danzig to complete the envelopment of East Prussia with the capture of the seaside village of Tolkemit, 13 miles northeast of Elbing.

On their way to the Baltic through the western edge of East Prussia, the Red Army troops overran Marienburg, big transport hub on the border between the province and the Free State of Danzig; Stuhm, eight miles south of Marienburg; and Muhlhausen, 12 miles east of Elbing.

Another Russian army, making a steamroller advance to the heart of East Prussia from the east, captured four of its main rail towns strung across the province from north to south.

ORDER OF THE DAY

Stalin's order of the day putting the official seal on Nazi admissions that East Prussia had been isolated was addressed to Rokosovsky and said in part:

"Troops of the second White Russian front, continuing their impetuous offensive, today captured the East Prussian towns of

Taxation Is Urged

Co-Operatives' Tax Exemption Is Claimed Used as Weapon Of Competition in Business

Taxing of the reserves of true co-operatives, and the amending of the Income War Tax Act so that it will be capable of effective administration, and provide that the income of alleged co-operatives may be ascertained and taxed on a basis comparable with other corporations, was recommended on behalf of the Independent Dairy Operators in the Edmonton area to the Royal Commission on taxation of co-operatives at Thursday afternoon's sittings.

The submission was made by F. G. Winspear, Edmonton chartered accountant, and Gerald O'Connor, KC, on behalf of the following independent creameries: Sangudo Creamery; Athabasca Creamery; Jasper Dairy; ECD; Barrhead Creamery; Vilna Creamery; Bluffton Creamery; South Edmonton Creamery; Woodland Dairy Ltd.; Evansburg Creamery; Elk Point Creamery; Bashaw Creamery, and Grand Prairie Creamery.

It was submitted that exemption of so-called co-operatives results in serious loss of government revenue, and that failure of the pools to pay taxes means that every citizen in Canada must pay more taxes. It was charged further that immunity from taxation of pools was being used as a weapon of competition against private industry.

OBJECTION RAISED

J. V. H. Milvain, KC, Calgary, counsel for the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool and other co-operative dairy pools in the province, objected to certain sections of the Independent Dairy Operators' brief on the ground that it was a direct attack on the NADP and that the sections were outside the reference of the commission. He said also that the brief contained some reckless statements.

Mr. O'Connor, for the Independents, said that there were no reckless statements in the submission. They were either based on facts, or were the considered opinions of those submitting them.

He denied that any of the statements were outside the reference of the commission. Several lines of

King Expected To Give Date Of Dissolution

By R. K. CARNEGIE

OTTAWA, Jan. 26. — (CP) — Political circles in the capital regard it as quite possible that Prime Minister Mackenzie King will announce or at least forecast the date of dissolution of parliament in the Speech from the Throne proroguing parliament next Wednesday.

The cabinet met yesterday and it was understood dissolution was among matters discussed.

Another matter facing the Prime Minister is the filling of 16 vacancies in the Senate, but officials stated there was nothing to prevent him delaying his selection until after dissolution.

VACANCIES LISTED

The vacancies are: Prince Edward Island 1, Nova Scotia 1, New Brunswick 3, Quebec 3, Ontario 4, Manitoba 2, Alberta 1, and British Columbia 1.

There is no rule forbidding appointments to the Senate between dissolution and election day. The general practice has been for prime ministers to make their selections either before dissolution or on the same day.

When the 16 vacancies are filled there will be 64 Liberal senators and 32 Progressive Conservatives, the first occasion when the standing has been two to one since the premiership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The present standing is Liberals 48 and Progressive Conservatives 32.

When Sir Wilfrid went to the country in 1911 there were only 87 seats in the Senate as compared with the present 96. Liberals held 64 seats, the Conservatives 21 and there were two vacancies.

Patrol Clashes On Italian Front

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

ROME, Jan. 26.—(BUP)—Headquarters today reported numerous clashes along the Fifth Army front as American patrols probed German positions, while in the Adriatic sector Eighth Army units fought off two attacks on strong points.

American patrols tested out the German positions all along the Fifth Army front and drew strong enemy reaction.

A German fighting patrol, armed with machine guns and bazookas, crossed the Senio river to attack an Eighth Army outpost near Cotignola. It was repulsed after a sharp fight.

Another German raiding party was driven off after attempting to seize a British strong point at a house two miles northwest of Alfonsine. The attack followed a heavy artillery barrage.

21-Point Action Program Is Unanimously Endorsed By Alberta Farmers' Union

Covering 21 points ranging from political action to old-age pensions, an action program previously endorsed by the United Farmers of Canada (Saskatchewan section) Thursday afternoon received unanimous endorsation at the Alberta Farmers' Union convention now being held in the Masonic Temple.

The action program, introduced into the convention by George Bevington, Winterburn, an AFU director, declares today are "deplorably unorganized".

"Unless we take action now, we shall emerge from the present war with the money-lending and other private corporations in control of Canadian agriculture," the program states.

"Farmers will either submit themselves to be the subordinate slaves of the money controllers and other organized groups, or they will take definite and effective organized action now, and advance step by step with courage and determination to an intelligently planned goal, and the first of those steps shall be action to attain security of land tenure, the right of possession, and crop insurance.

Excerpts from the action program are below:

Let us face the facts realistically. Debt legislation that merely postpones payment is no solution, it merely pushes the problem into the future. We must aim at removing the debt creating part of our economic system, and thus provide a solid foundation upon which to build sound provincial and national economic structures.

Orderly Peace With Justice, Religion Urged

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—The National Board of the Canadian Roman Catholic Hierarchy in a statement yesterday imploring "orderly peace founded on justice, morality and religion" suggested that temporal peace depends without qualifications on the acceptance and discharge of personal responsibilities.

The 2,500-word statement, prepared during a meeting of the national board at Quebec last week, discussed the structure of harmonious international order, order and justice in Canada, Communism, Canadian school and social legislation and the problem of divorce and of the family.

WORD OF DIRECTION

The statement, described as "our word of direction in this critical time," was signed by Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve, chairman, nine archbishops and three bishops.

Despite constructive efforts that have aimed at the achievement of a just peace, the statement said that "the average human mind still remains somewhat clouded as to the real and vital issue, thus . . . we say in all earnestness, this is a world problem, your world problem".

Touching on international affairs, the statement expressed the hope Poland "would not be abandoned to her fate" and added that the courageous part the Russian people were playing in the war "must not blind us regarding world revolution which the leaders of international communism always seek".

PROTECTION EARNED

Poland, in resisting so courageously the Nazi oppression, "has earned the right to the admiration and protection of all civilized nations . . ."

"Governments and simple citizens alike have the very grave obligation of checking amongst us communistic infiltrations under whatever external appearance they present themselves".

New York Yanks Rumored Sold

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 26—(AP)—Robert A. Becker, a business associate of Del Webb, Phoenix contractor, said here today Webb, Capt. Dan Topping and Col. Larry MacPhail had purchased New York Yankees.

"I understand the deal was put through yesterday afternoon," Becker said. "Mr. Webb telephoned me in the morning to transfer some money to him there to facilitate his part of the transaction."

Becker said he believed the price involved was around $2,800,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—(AP)—The Journal-American said in its first edition today that New York Yankees of the American Baseball League, have been sold to a syndicate made up of Col. Larry MacPhail, Capt. Dan Topping and Del Webb, Arizona millionaire.

The story, written by Sports Editor Max Kase, said the deal was consumated late yesterday for $2,500,000 with W. Wootrich of the Manufacturers Trust Company, trustees for the heirs of the late Col. Jacob Ruppert, signing the contracts.

To Get Cooler

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(Reuters)—The German DNB agency claimed today that U-boats, attacking Allied supply traffic to Britain and France, had sunk six fully-loaded vessels totalling 43,000 tons, including three large tankers.

"Direct hits were also scored on two large destroyers on escort duty and they were sunk," said the enemy report which gave no dates for alleged sinkings.

"Artillery U-Boat" New Hun Weapon

Clark Field Is Taken By American Forces

By WILLIAM B. DICKINSON
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Jan. 26.—(BUP)—The 40th (California) Division, with Clark Field's dozen airstrips and adjacent Fort Stotsenburg firmly in its hands, rushed on to the south today within 40 miles or less of Manila and 20 miles of Manila Bay.

(A Tokyo broadcast said today that the American command appeared to be planning "new developments in the Luzon war situation with the massing of fresh troops." The broadcast called attention to increased number of ships in the waters south of Luzon and an intensification of air attacks on the Manila area, including Corregidor island in Manila Bay.)

Gen. Douglas MacArthur celebrated his 65th birthday today by announcing the capture of Clark field, greatest air base in the western Pacific and where his original air force was wiped out by Japanese dive bombers only a few days after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 8, 1941.

Though cratered by American bombs, and littered with the wreckage of Japanese aircraft, Clark field probably quickly can be restored to operational condition.

From Clark field, Allied planes can fan out over Formosa, 475 miles to the north, French Indo-China, 775 miles to the west, and Hong Kong, 650 miles northwest, as well as cover any projected landings on the China coast.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 26.—This paper shortage is really getting bad. In fact, last week I wrote a check and it didn't bounce, it just dribbled. The big executives aren't telling their secretaries to take a memo anymore. . . . Now it's come to, "Miss Jones, take a tatoo!" Of course, with the paper shortage, there won't be any calendars this year. Remember how the big companies used to send calendars to all their customers? This year they're sending a knife so you can cut notches in your wall. But the lack of calendars is good in one way . . . it gives a guy a perfect excuse for forgetting his wife's birthday. I complained to the calendar company that without calendars people wouldn't know when I was on the air and couldn't listen to me. They sent a quick wire in reply and said, "that's bad," But it's going to mean a lot of employment. The calendar companies are hiring boys to come to your office every day, tap you on the shoulder, and say, "hey, bud . . . it's the tenth!"

CCF New "Socialist Party" Grey North Voters Warned

WOODFORD, Ont., Jan. 26—(CP)—The CCF party no longer is a Co-operative Commonwealth Federation because through influence it has become a "Socialist Party" Garfield Case, Progressive Conservative candidate in the Grey North by-election of Feb. 5, said last night.

In a speech to a political rally here, Mr. Case said that the "brains" behind the CCF party was "David Lewis, a Russian-born Jewish refugee—and by that reference I don't want to detract from him in any way".

(Mr. Lewis is national secretary of the CCF with headquarters in Ottawa).

Mr. Case said that Mr. Lewis had come to Canada from Russia with his parents when he was a boy. He was educated in Canadian schools and had gone to England to complete his studies at Oxford university.

"Now he seeks to put in effect a system that is being used in Russia", said Mr. Case.

"Come what may, if Socialists gain control of the government of this country we will have state ownership, restrictions, controls, and all that goes with Socialism.

"While we have the greatest admiration for what the Russians are Muhlhausen, Marienburg and Stuhm, important strongholds of the German defences, and having broken through to the shores of Danzig Bay captured the town of Tolkemit, thus cutting off the East Prussian group of the German army from the central district of Germany."

Moscow dispatches said Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's army had flanked the Polish stronghold of Poznan on both sides while storming it frontally, and gloom-laden Berlin broadcasts said the Soviet armor sweeping westward beyond Poznan had reached the area of the Brandenburg province frontier of Germany, of which Berlin is the capital.

While Zhukov's forces were making the nearest approach so far to Berlin, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's troops to the south were storming Breslau, the Silesian capital, after clamping a pincer on it, and by Berlin account beating across the Oder river at several crossings.

Marshal Stalin, in his first order of the day today, announced that Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian Army in a storming advance to central East Prussia, captured Taplau, Allenburg, Nordenburg and Lotzen, respectively 22, 31, 50 and 69 miles southeast of the provincial capital of Konigsberg.

The seizure of what Stalin called the "powerful strongholds of the German long-term defence zone covering the central regions of East Prussia" advanced Cherniakhovsky's forces westward on a solid front toward the army of Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, which had barricaded the back door of the province and cut off its estimated 200,000 defenders.

The German Transocean news agency said two Russian flying columns were intercepted and "destroyed" after they had swung past the Polish fortress city of Poznan and driven almost to the border of Germany's Brandenburg province.

At the same time, Berlin said a third armored spearhead plunged 55 miles north of Poznan to the area of German Schnwidemuhl, 95 miles southeast of the Baltic seaport of Stettin.

BY-PASS POZNAN

The German high command admitted that Russian armored forces had by-passed Poznan on both sides and speared westward toward the border while assault troops were storming the last big Polish defence bastion on the road to Berlin.

The closest approach to Berlin apparently was made by a flanking force that swept around the northern side of Poznan to reach the border near the German town of Driesen, 94 miles from the Nazi capital, 53 miles northwest of Poznan.

The second break-through came near the Polish border town of Zbaszyn, 42 miles east-southeast of Poznan and 97 miles from Berlin.

At Szbaszyn, the Soviets were only 58 miles east of Frankfurt-on-Oder, the last defensive outpost before Berlin.

STORM OUTSKIRTS

There was no immediate confirmation of the German reports from Moscow, but late Soviet dispatches said Russian troops were storming into the eastern outskirts of Poznan while strong armored formations were looping past the city on the north and south.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Moscow said "large Soviet mobile columns" were striking for Frankfurt, leaving their supporting elements to clear out the Nazi garrison at Poznan.

The sudden break-through to the Nazi frontier at the centre of the long eastern front came as Red Army divisions in Silesia ripped through a half-dozen breaches in the Oder river line on the south-eastern road to the Nazi capital.

USE AIR RESERVES

Enemy reports disclosed that the Nazi high command was throwing probably its last reserves of air power into the battle in an all-or-nothing gamble to turn back the Red Army invaders.

Berlin revealed that perhaps 3,000 fighters and bombers which the Luftwaffe had been hoarding to meet the Anglo-American air forces' spring offensive in the west were swarming out over the eastern front to cover the reeling Nazi armies and rake the advancing Russians with bombs and gunfire.

Moscow dispatches simultaneously told of "huge" formations of Soviet warplanes on the attack, and it appeared that the greatest air battles of the eastern campaign were in progress over a vast area extending from the Carpathians to the Baltic seacoast.

BLACK HOUR FOR NAZIS

The Nazi gamble in the air came at the blackest hour of the war for German arms, with East Prussia all but lost, the strategic Oder river barrier broken in Silesia, and the Red Army hammering at Poznan on the direct road to Berlin.

Late Moscow dispatches said Soviet troops had broken into the eastern outskirts of Poznan, 136 miles east of Berlin, and were trying to envelope the city before launching an all-out drive to take it by storm.

After 14 days of unbroken Russian advance that overran an estimated 65,000 square miles of enemy-held territory, German resistance was reported stiffening on the threatened approaches to their capital, but Nazi spokesmen asserted that fresh Russian reserves were arriving at the front—indicating that future reverses were anticipated in Berlin.

GRAVEST THREAT

The gravest immediate threat faced the Germans in Silesia, where they acknowledged that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army had won a number of bridgeheads across the Oder river on both sides of Breslau, breaching probably the strongest defensive line before the enemy capital.

Konev swung the main weight of his assault directly against Breslau, keystone of the Upper Oder line and the ninth city of Hitler's reich, while other armored columns enveloped the Silesian industrial basin to the south and swung across the river 31 miles to the northwest at Steinau, 136 miles southeast of Berlin.

Storming in on Breslau from the east, north and south, the Soviets were reported battling into the section on the east bank of the Oder against furious resistance from German regulars and Volstrum units ordered to hold on to the last man.

Soviet field dispatches said German civilians were pouring out of Breslau by the thousands and the city shook continually to the explosion of Russian shells and Nazi demolitions.

Outflanked by the Oder crossing to the north and south, the Germans had little hope of a successful stand in Breslau, but they appeared ready to put the torch to the great industrial city before abandoning it to the Red Army.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army linked up its southern flank with Konev's troops in the Silesian-Polish border area above Steinau, but there was no official word as to whether this was the spearhead reported by the Russian army organ Red Star as about 124 miles from Berlin.

Abandoned German Territory Ordered Scorched by Hitler

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Adolf Hitler last night categorically ordered German commanders on the Eastern Front to scorch every inch of German soil they abandon, while Germany was forced to clamp a state of siege on populations of Prague and Eastern Czechoslovakian cities rebelling as the Red Army approaches, the Moscow radio said.

The "scorched earth" order and other signs indicated the Germans may be despairing of stemming the Russian tide, now reported only 125 miles from Berlin—or of making an early return to the yielded territory.

Berlin disclosed a Czechoslovak state of siege and admitted German forces were retreating before Red armies driving approximately 125 miles from Prague, the old Czechoslovak capital.

Moscow said workers had gone on strike in Prague and that people were "fighting the Gestapo in various districts" in an attempt to prevent German evacuation of machinery and material.

Swiss reports by way of Moscow predicted Hitler would speak out on the 12th anniversary of his chancellorship Jan. 30, appealing to the Germans to "resist to the last drop of blood."

Says King Makes Political Capital

VANCOUVER, Jan. 26—(CP)—J. M. Macdonnell, policy chairman of the National Progressive Conservative party, said yesterday that "Prime Minister King is trying to make political capital out of the fact that we are opposing General McNaughton in Grey North."

"While one doesn't like to see an election contest involving a defence minister in wartime, it is vitally important that the man holding that position should have the support of the majority of the people," he said in an interview shortly after his arrival here. "It looks very much as if the government's toes are getting cold on the by-election."

Concerning the Progressive Conservative prospects in a general election, Mr. Macdonnell said he could speak only for Ontario where the party's position is very strong.

"We have nearly all of our candidates nominated and public support is very good."

V-4 Super-Bomb Is Said Ready

By THOMAS HARRIS

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 26.—(Reuters)—V-4, new super flying bomb which the Germans claim can hit New York and other points on the eastern North American coast—now is in production and ready for launching across the Atlantic, a German engineer who was one of the principal inventors of V-weapons told correspondents yesterday.

Until a few days ago he was head of an experimental station for V-bombs in Jutland but escaped to Sweden. The V-4 is faster and more accurate than the V-2—and V-3 which is only an improved version of V-2—the engineer said.

It weighs about 15 tons, travels at 1.8 miles a second and attains an altitude of more than 120 miles.

It reaches the height in just over two minutes after being fired at an angle of 75 degrees.

ACCURACY INCREASED

Its great altitude and speed give it increased accuracy and range.

The V-4 is driven on the reaction principle by exploding gases. Gases are obtained from liquid carried in the tanks built along the sides of the weapon in the same way as vapor is obtained from liquid gasoline in a motor car carburetor.

The gases are led into a tube, 15 centimetres in diameter and 10 metres long, running along the axis of the bomb. Here they are exploded by an electric spark.

The new principle of the V-4 is in using electricity to ignite the gases, the engineer said.

The great disadvantage of V-4, the engineer said, is that it is difficult to produce in quantity.

NUMBER LIMITED

The Germans could therefore only send a limited number of bombs against Halifax, New York or such cities.

The Germans will probably reserve it for European targets until their final defeat, when sheer spite may cause them to attack North American cities, he said.

AFU Debates Trade Union Affiliation

Negotiations toward affiliation of the Alberta Farmers' Union with a Canadian labor organization shall be conducted in a way that will not tend to alienate labor's attitude to the AFU, according to a directive passed at Friday morning's session of the farmers' union convention in the Masonic Temple.

By resolution, delegates at the convention instructed its central executive to "refrain from any action or demand in their negotiations with veteran unionists which might tend to alienate these potential allies."

Earlier, the convention passed a resolution re-affirming the AFU stand on amalgamation with the United Farmers of Alberta. The executive was instructed to take "all possible action" to bring about amalgamation with the UFA.

Another motion passed Friday morning calls for equal representation on the Alberta Federation of Agriculture between farmer and co-operative organizations. At present the AFA board of nine includes one AFU and one UFA member.

AMENDMENT LOST

On the affiliation motion, an amendment to refer any affiliation to a vote of the entire AFU membership was lost. The vote would have required a 51 per cent majority to endorse affiliation.

"The only way that we can achieve what we want is to unite and fight for it," one delegate said in support of any affiliation move. "We want the same results as labor: how can we win a battle if the infantry goes into the fight while the sailors go into a beer parlor? We should show labor we are right with them and want them with us."

Another delegate pointed out the AFU directors' report to the convention stated trade unions themselves were badly divided at the moment.

"We are pretty much in the same position", he declared. "We don't know what the UFA thinks (about affiliation with labor). If we affiliate before we amalgamate with the UFA, how would that affect amalgamation? I feel amalgamation with the UFA is much more important right now."

AMALGAMATION MOTION

The amalgamation resolution was brought before the convention by 11 AFU locals and two district conventions. It states that rivalry between the UFA and the AFU "is not in the best interests of the farmers".

Speaking on the resolution, R. N. Russell, Athabasca, an AFU director, pointed out that under its present constitution, the AFU could not amalgamate with the UFA.

He said the UFA was organized under the Co-operative Societies Act, while the AFU was organized under the Societies Act. The latter legislation prohibits an organization from doing business, such as UFA co-operatives now carry on.

Feeling of the convention was that negotiations toward amalgamation should continue, union being the ultimate goal of such proceedings.

Also passed by the convention Friday morning was a motion calling on the provincial government to co-operate with the governments of Saskatchewan and Manitoba with an end to purchasing and operation of the Hudson's Bay railroad under "a strong commission."

Another resolution carried Friday calls on the Dominion government to lower voting age in Canada to the compulsory military call-up age.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 26. — (BUP)—La Prensa, praising Canadian trade policies during 1944, today quoted at length passages from recent statements by Minister of Trade and Commerce J. A. MacKinnon.

The newspaper emphasized that Canada had increased her exports despite the war and manpower problems.

"Canada has reached an admirable economic position because of its nature, its origin, and the dedication and honesty with which its people work", an editorial in La Prensa said.

Seventh Army Smashes Back Hun Offensive

merely the Roer line connected with the Ninth Army front along the Roer. Patrols jabbed to the river bank against light resistance, but the bulk of the German forces was believed withdrawn across the stream.

Lt.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army took a dozen towns in pressing forward on the heels of the Germans fighting a delaying retreat to the Siegfried line from the thin strip of the Ardennes bump.

An armored division captured Mayerode, four miles northeast of St. Vith, and an infantry took Braunlauf, the same distance southeast of the Belgian town.

ERASE SALIENT

As United Kingdom troops virtually erased the enemy's Roer river salient, British United Press correspondent Richard D. McMillan in a front dispatch said the German defences of the rich industrial Ruhr region were "sagging at a quickening tempo."

Gen. Dempsey's Second Army troops in a new forward surge, engulfed six more villages and reached the Wurm river on a two-mile front and on their right, American Ninth Army forces captured Brachelen, six miles northeast of Geilenkirchen, in an advance which carried them to the Roer river, north of Linnich.

At the northern end of the line, Canadian First Army troops wiped out a German raiding party which crossed the Maas river south of Nijmegen and United Kingdom infantry, farther south, captured Linne, three miles below Roermond.

OVERRUN VILLAGES

In their now 2,000-yard thrust, Dempsey's Second Army units overran the villages of Grebben, Hulven, Dremmen, Horst, Norm and Hoven, lying northwest of Linnich and of the original enemy bridgehead west of the Roer, the enemy now held a mere strip less than a mile wide.

Meanwhile counter-attacking American Seventh Army formations blunted the Germar offensive in northern Alsace which had threatened Strasbourg. The First and Third Armies seized another five square miles of territory along the fringe of the former Ardennes bulge and the German radio said American armored forces had launched a new assault on a 30-mile front.

A German DNB dispatch broadcast by Berlin said tank supported American columns attacked yesterday morning on a wide front stretching from a point southeast of Malmedy in eastern Belgium to the junction of the Sure and Our rivers in central Luxembourg, but did not make clear immediately the scale of the assault.

CUT DOWN BULGE

Latest dispatches from the Ardennes front made no mention of a new assault, but told of advances of up to a mile and a half within sight of the Our river border of Germany in the continuing process of whittling down the former Nazi bulge to a harmless bump.

In French Alsace, Lt.-Gen. Alexander Patch's Seventh Army halted the 24-hour-old German offensive above Strasbourg and won back a good proportion of the terrain yielded along a 20-mile front between the Rhine and the Hradt mountains.

Patch's men threw the Germans back across the Moder river and restored their defence line east of Haguenau, 15 miles north of Strasbourg, and re-took part of the Uhlwiller and Ohlungen forests west of Haguenau, but the Germans still were clinging desperately to a bridgehead across the Moder in the latter area.

HIGHWAY IS CUT

Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's American Third Army, slicing away at the last few miles of the former Ardennes bulge, cut the so-called "Skyway Drive" highway between St. Vith at Diekirch at a third point within sight of the Our river, which forms the German-Luxembourg border in that area.

The Third Army crossed the Clerf river, last natural barrier before the Our, at four places and was fighting into Clervaux, German anchor stronghold astride the stream.

Allied planes continued their aerial bombardment of enemy columns withdrawing east from the Ardennes into Germany and destroyed or damaged more than 1,600 motor vehicles, tanks, armored cars, railway cars and locomotives.

Two British Fliers Freed by Soviets

MOSCOW, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Two British fliers are the first Allied prisoners freed by the onrushing Russian offensive, field dispatches said today. They were quoted as saying they were shot down in France last January, and taken to a camp at Kreuzberg, Silesia, along with many other Allied captives.

Kreuzberg, 50 miles southeast of Breslau, was overrun early in the Russian invasion of Silesia.

Canadians held prisoner in the area in the path of the Russian offensive are believed to have been located for the most part at Stalag 8-B at Teschen, southeast of Krakow in Poland; at Sjalag 2-D at Stangard in Pomerania and at Stalag 344 at Lansdorf southeast of Breslau.

BEFORE THE MAGISTRATE

John Kurylo of Delph, who, RCMP told Magistrate L. R. Jackson Friday morning, had been observed driving on the Edmonton-Jasper highway with but one headlight and no tail-lights, was assessed $5 or 10 days.

George F. Haswell, Edmonton, was fined $15 or 20 days after pleading guilty to dangerous driving. The accused, it was stated, was driving along 118 avenue and believed he was at an intersection. Instead he found himself in the middle of the block with a street car bearing down on him. The accused was injured in the ensuing collision and taken to hospital, where he remained for a couple of days.

50 Japanese Ships Are Claimed Sunk

CHUNGKING, Jan. 26.—(AP)—A Chinese Central News Agency dispatch yesterday reported that more than 50 Japanese ships were sunk off the coast of Chekiang and Fukien during the last two weeks by American planes and submarines. Because of air attacks enemy garrisons at Amoy, Quemoy and Foochow have been shifted to the suburbs and supplies have been cached, the agency said.

gressive Conservative and CCF candidates.

Mr. King said it would not be known until nomination day whether the opposition parties were determined to persist in their present attitudes which, he said, were creating conditions which make a general election necessary.

There is little expectation in Liberal or any other quarters that the opposition candidates will withdraw and give Gen. McNaughton an acclamation. Opinion is divided in political circles as to whether Mr. King will dissolve parliament before the by-election, but if he does it is believed the announcement will come when parliament is prorogued Jan. 31.

BECOMES VITAL DAY

If he does not dissolve and the by-election proceeds, voting day, Feb. 5, becomes the vital day. The belief is that if Gen. McNaughton is elected there will be a short session of parliament starting about March 1 and ending when parliament reaches the end of its five-year term April 17.

If the minister is defeated it is believed there will be no session, but an immediate dissolution of parliament and a general election which can take place in two months.

In the event of there being no session of parliament the probable date of the general election thus becomes early in April. In the event of a session the date, on the basis of precedents, may not come until the end of June.

Charges Soviet System Is Aim Of CCF Party

doing, who would think for a moment of trading our lot for theirs, even though theirs is much better than it was under the old Czar regime".

SAYS PRESSURE USED TO KEEP CCF OUT

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 26.—(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the CCF, said in an interview yesterday that the "Liberal Party" had put "every pressure that could be put upon me to keep out of the Grey North by-election of Feb. 5."

Mr. Coldwell, here to speak in support of Air Vice Marshal A. E. Godfrey, CCF candidate, said Prime Minister Mackenzie King could under law call off the by-election by dissolving parliament. He did not know whether Mr. King would take such a step which would "be evidence that he expects certain defeat in the by-election."

SEEKS ELECTION ISSUE

Mr. Coldwell said he was convinced that Mr. King wanted a war-time election and was seeking some issue on which he could place the blame for the election on the opposition parties.

He understood that Defence Minister McNaughton, government candidate, would have preferred to have stood in a by-election in western Canada.

Feelers had been put out to see if the CCF party would oppose Gen. McNaughton in the vacant federal constituency of Regina. The Regina headquarters of the CCF had stated that if Gen. McNaughton ran in the constituency he certainly would be opposed by a CCF candidate.

Mr. Coldwell said the central organization of the CCF had nothing to do with the placing of a candidate in Grey North. The people in the constituency had expressed a desire to run a candidate and they appealed to CCF provincial headquarters in Toronto for help. The provincial headquarters promised assistance and Air Marshal Godfrey was chosen as the candidate.

Word that a candidate was to run came to him through the provincial headquarters, Mr. Coldwell said.

COLDWELL EXPLAINS CCF WAR POLICIES

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 26.—(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the CCF party, said last night that the CCF had opposed the immediate despatch of a Canadian Expeditionary Force to Europe when the war broke out. Had the CCF's advice been taken, he said, Canada's men would not have been overseas 4½ years before going into battle and manpower "would have been utilized so that when a well-trained expeditionary force was needed, it would have been available for service."

Mr. Coldwell was speaking at a political rally in support of Air Vice-Marshal A. Earl Godfrey, CCF candidate in the Grey North federal by-election Feb. 5.

"The Progressive Conservatives say the CCF opposed this war," Mr. Coldwell stated. "On the contrary, we voted to declare war on Germany in Sept., 1939. We urged the immediate survey of our resources, human and material, in order to see how best we could make our contribution.

CALLED FOR DEFENCE

"We urged that we undertake immediately the defence of our shores and the territories of Great Britain and France adjacent to this continent—a sizeable job.

Today, the Tories complain that men have been overseas five years without leave. They do well to complain, as we do also, but they must shoulder a large part of the responsibility."

"Every session for the past three years the CCF has moved resolutions in parliament for the total mobilization of industry, wealth and manpower for war. On every occasion the Tories and Liberals have voted these resolutions down.

GREY NORTH SYMBOL OF PUBLIC OPINION

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 26—(CP)—Grey North is becoming the symbol of what the average Canadian feels about the vital problems which will finally be decided at a general election in a few months, Air Vice-Marshal A. Early Godfrey, CCF candidate in the Grey North federal by-election Feb. 5, said last night.

"If the Liberals (Defence Minister McNaughton) win this election, they will claim it represents a complete endorsation of Liberal policies throughout the war," Mr. Godfrey told a political rally.

TORIES GIVE HELP

"If the Liberals stand for no interference with monopolies, then the Progressive Conservatives stand for giving them active help to increase their wealth and power still more," he continued.

"They are opposed to the Excess Profits Tax. They have openly advocated that big business should be permitted to build up huge capital funds out of war profits—out of your sacrifices in this war. They have advocated the corporation tax be abolished completely."

VOTE FOR COUNTRY ELECTORS ARE URGED

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 26.—(CP)—George Harris, secretary of the Canadian district, United Electrical Workers of America (CIO), said last night that the electors of Grey North should support Gen. McNaughton, government candidate in the Feb. 5 by-election, since it was their duty "to rise above party and vote for the country."

Speaking over an Owen Sound radio station, Mr. Harris said Gen. McNaughton is particularly fitted for his job.

"If Gen. McNaughton is defeated," Mr. Harris said, "the national crisis which was narrowly averted during the recent session of parliament will come upon us again. It is because of the war, and the supreme need for the utmost national unity, that I am speaking to you."

OPPOSES RESOLUTION

He opposed the resolution passed by the political action committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor and last week resigned as vice-chairman of the PAC-CCL. The resolution called on Labor to support Air Vice-Marshal Godfrey, CCF candidate.

I resigned from the PAC because of the step taken to tie the trade unions to the CCF," he said.

WEATHER HAMPERS BY-ELECTION CAMPAIGN

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 26.—(CP)—Snow-blocked highways and bitterly cold weather are hampering candidates and newspapermen alike in the Grey North by-election.

Wednesday night Garfield Case, Progressive Conservative candidate in the by-election was unable to fulfil a speaking engagement at Heathcote, 40 miles southwest of here, because the highway was blocked. He made his speech at Meaford.

Defence Minister McNaughton, the Liberal candidate, was scheduled last night to speak at Kimberley and Heathcote and apparently got to those places, but newspapermen didn't. A party of reporters representing The Canadian Press, the Toronto Globe and Mail, Toronto Star and London Free Press, travelling by motorcar, were stopped by series of flat tires in 20-below zero weather. After long delays while two tires were fixed and the frozen car registered, the newspapermen finally returned to Owen Sound.

Hot Dog!

A former school chum of Jacqueline White, now serving in the South Pacific, reported that every time Marines stationed at the base see the above pin-up of the screen actress, they stop and yell "Hot dog!" So what? So Jacqueline becomes the leathernecks' "Hot Dog Girl" and gets her picture in the paper.

Action Program Is Unanimously Backed by AFU

groups that are fully organized are able to secure ample recognition to their economic demands.

Inadequately organized farmers cannot and will not secure a full measure of economic recognition, as they cannot submit a mandatory request from an effective majority, and the farm community and national economy have suffered in consequence. Governments who wish to remain in administrative office believe that it is politically wise to serve best those who are best organized.

Farmers can only secure an equitable share of the national income which is largely obtained through the disposal of farm products, when by united action they can apply the necessary pressure to secure parity prices and other requirements essential to agricultural well-being.

DIRECT ACTION

(2)—Failing just and equitable recognition of organized farmers' requests, farmers must be prepared to take direct action in an organized intelligent manner. Such action is constitutionally legal, and by the trades union reasoning that a "fair day's pay for a fair day's work" is required to ensure a decent living and working efficiency.

A parity price return for the products of agricultural labor is necessary to effectively maintain occupational security and provide equitable living conditions.

No business, trade, or occupation can operate at a loss indefinitely. Farmers must therefore in defence of their occupation and their living decide that no farm products will be made available to others, if for any reason beyond the farmers' own control, price values drop below production cost.

PARITY PRICES GOAL

(3)—The income of the agricultural population must be in conformity with others who comprise our citizenship and farmers must therefore receive an equitable share of the national income.

A proper relationship of prices must prevail at all times so that the prices received for agricultural products shall enable farmers to buy an equivalent amount of goods or services produced or rendered by any other occupational group.

FLOOR PRICES

(4)—Until a proper system of parity prices are established farmers must be guaranteed floor prices for their products, on a scale not less than prices (including bonus) received by producers in August, 1944.

FOREIGN TRADE

(5)—After provision for Canadian consumable requirements has been taken care of, all barriers which may restrict or retard the free exchange of Canadian surplus productions with other countries, must be removed, and international trade agreements must be made on the basis of value commensurate with an equalizing adjustment of the wage level of workers in the more backward countries such as India, China and the Latin Americas.

FINANCIAL POLICY

(6)—The people of Canada must have complete control of the nation's money system which must be operated under the direction of parliamentary policy, with an administrative board in charge, under the chairman ship of a person who shall have the power of a judge of a superior court.

Provision should be made by the nation to provide:

(1)—Parity prices for farm products.

(2)—Adequate credit at cost to finance agriculture and all other essential requirements.

(3)—An equitable adjustment and settlement of debts.

(4)—Maintain consumer prices at fair levels, which will enable the people to buy the nation's total production, also imported goods in exchange for exports.

FREIGHT RATES

(7)—An equitable adjustment must be made in the grossly unfair freight rate structure which discriminates in freight charges against prairie farmers exporting and importing goods on all lines of railway including the Hudson Bay Railway.

EDUCATION, HEALTH

(8)—The federal government must make available, interest free grants on an equitable basis, to provide the highest possible standard of education and health services under the constitutional control of provincial governments.

INCOME TAX

(9)—All single persons receiving incomes less than $1,000 and married persons with incomes less than $2,000 shall be exempt from income tax.

For income tax purposes farmers' incomes must be computed on a five-year income average.

PENSIONS

(10)—Since 1939 the cost of living has increased nearly 18 per cent, and the small increase provided to pensioners during the past year is far short of meeting the increased living cost. Pensions for the aged, crippled persons, and blind persons of any age must therefore be increased to provide a decent living standard.

CO-OPERATIVE FINANCING

(11)—We demand the act governing the Bank of Canada be amended to allow any co-operative organization which mobilizes real wealth, to have the right to hypothecate the documentary title to the real wealth of its patrons with the Bank of Canada and shall receive in exchange, at cost, the value in money represented by these securities at the existing market prices.

MARKETING ACT

Co-operative agricultural producers have in the past been handicapped in their marketing efforts through the lack of marketing legislation which would enable them as co-operators to market their products freely with co-operators or others in other countries, we must for this purpose therefore have enacted by the federal government in collaboration with the provincial government a Canadian Natural Products Marketing act.

LIVESTOCK BOARD

(13)—We request that legislation be enacted by the federal government to make possible the creation of a board of livestock commissioners, upon which shall be a majority of representatives, recommended by farm organizations.

CROP INSURANCE

(14)—A more adequate form of crop insurance than that provided by the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, is necessary. We urge that the Dominion government give further consideration to extending the scope of the PFAA to provide a proper insurance against crop failure caused through elements beyond the control of farmers.

SECURITY OF TENURE

(15)—We request that a wider measure of protection against the constant threat of dispossession of land and machinery is necessary to ensure the high operating level necessary to the maintenance of our prairie agricultural economy. For this purpose the protective powers of the provincial government must be extended to cover the family farm and the worker's home.

EDUCATION

(16)—Educational facilities should be financed by provincial and Dominion governments and all degrees of education should be made available free to all students regardless of race, creed, location or financial circumstances.

HEALTH SERVICES

(17)—We believe that complete health services should be made available to all Canadian citizens as a national social responsibility and that cost of same be borne by the Dominion treasury.

In the meanwhile, however, we urge the provincial government to provide the maximum health services possible with due consideration to their ability to pay for any required service.

ELECTRIFICATION

(18)—As no farm home improvement plan could be adequate without the service of electric power for domestic and other uses on the farm, a comprehensive system of rural electrification to cover the main settled parts of the province should be undertaken as soon as materials are available.

INDUSTRIAL PLANS

(19)—We urge that the provincial government take whatever steps are necessary to have established other industrial enterprises including the production of alcohol, glucose, glycol, oils, plastics and other goods from wheat and other surplus farm productions, and that co-operatives aalso be urged to engage in such industrial developments whenever possible.

CHURCHILL RAILWAY

(20)—The practicability of the Hudson Bay-Port Churchill route to export farm prorducts and import Western Canada requirements having been proved, we request that the Saskatchewan government, in co-operation with Alberta and Manitoba governments, if possible forthwith secure from the Dominion government the power to maintain, operate and administer under a strong representative western committee, the Hudson Bay railway, and port and harbor facilities at Churchill.

REITERATE POLICY

(21)—We herewith reiterate our long established policy, that the natural resources of the province and the nation are the heritage of the people and should therefore remain in the ownership of the people and operated in the interests of the people with at all times due consideration to preservation of such natural resources for the benefit of future generations, and further that public utilities used by all people, such as banks, publically used transportation and electrical services should be owned by the people and operated for the service of the people.

We believe that in the achievement of parity and the building of an equitable state of society co-operation is essential.

Only Wants "Happy Home"!

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Francis Van Wie, 38, the five-foot lothario who recalls marrying eight women and divorcing none, tearfully related in jail yesterday his story of the multiple romances which culminated in his arrest on bigamy charges. Van Wie, former street car conductor in San Francisco, where police counted nine wives, declared his plight is due to "my long search for a happy home," a quest which began with his first marriage in Wisconsin in 1904 or 1905.

"I found it, too, at last," he told a reporter, "but now it's too late. My only regret is the disgrace I am causing Mrs. Crenshaw. She was the only one I really loved; we were so happy."

Mrs. Crenshaw is Brutonia Evelyn Brown Crenshaw Van Wie, wife No. 8, whom he wed last Dec. 12 in Reno, Nev.

Film Council For Industry Is Organized

To co-ordinate the use of motion picture films in industry in Alberta, an Industrial Film Council for the province was set up at a meeting of representatives of various industries in the Accident Prevention Association office Wednesday evening.

Representatives of such organizations as the Canadian Manufacturers Association, the Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce, the Labor Union, University Extension Department, the provincial government, the Alberta Safety Association, the Edmonton civic library and the Safety Department of the Workmen's Compensation Board discussed various features of educational films in industry with George Le Beau, western supervisor at Winnipeg for the National Film Board.

These representatives will report to their own organizations and February 21 will form a permanent council.

OFFICIALS PRESIDING

The meeting was held under the chairmanship of Howard Stutchbury, and E. E. Owen, safety director for the compensation board, acted as secretary.

Mr. LeBeau pointed out that expansion in the program of showing educational films to industry has provided the need for the permanent council. Up to the present time, a committee of three has carried on the work. The films shown deal with such topics as health, nutrition, safety, reports from the war front and films of international significance.

In addition to co-ordinating the use of films in industry, the council will co-ordinate the production of these films in Alberta, distribute them, act as a mine of information about the films and also as an advisory body for industry.

Vice-President Of AFU Named At Convention

William Hawrelak, Wasel, prominent Alberta Farmers' Union official, was elected Wednesday as first vice-president of that body, at third annual AFU convention sessions being held in the Masonic Temple.

Other vice-presidents elected to the officers' slate included Henry Young, Millet, second vice-president; C. O. McGowan, Hairy Hill, third vice-president, and L. E. Pharis, fourth vice-president. Eleven candidates contested for the posts.

NO WOMAN MEMBER

No lady vice-president was elected to the executive, making the coming year the first since the first convention of the AFU that no woman has been a member of the board. Mrs. J. Geddes, Winterburn, third vice-president last year, ran for re-election but was defeated.

Considerable discussion arose in the convention after election results were announced, many delegates feeling the executive should be enlarged to include one woman member. After long debate, notice of motion for a constitutional amendment making this possible was put to a vote and lost. The motion was brought before the convention by W. H. Childress, High River.

By resolution late Wednesday the convention reaffirmed its stand of neutrality in politics. "This convention reaffirms our adherence to the principle of a strictly non-political organization and we instruct all our official spokesmen to adhere to this principle in all matters connected with the Alberta Farmers' Union," the motion read.

This direction was substituted for another resolution which protested against letters written to the public press by H. E. Nichols, AFU secretary, which were said to be "of a definitely political flavor."

The substitute motion was proposed by Henry Young, Millet.

Dr. T. Lloyd Jones, animal pathologist for the provincial department of agriculture, appeared before the convention Thursday afternoon and discussed at some length Bang's Disease, bovine tuberculosis and problems related to animal diseases and their control.

Officials Inspect Building Sites

Plans for the establishment of small holding units in Edmonton under the Veterans' Land Act were furthered Wednesday when Mayor John W. Fry and other civic officials and representatives of the Soldier Settlement Board and Veterans' Land Act inspected suitable locations for these small holdings.

It was announced Thursday by Mayor Fry that 150 sites may be utilized in Edmonton to settle returned veterans on one-acre plots within the city limits which can be used by them to supplement their ordinary earnings or military pensions by way of raising garden truck and chickens.

Among the properties inspected were the Grierson estate on the north side of the Fort Trail near Klondyke Gardens, and the Martin estate in the south-west section of the city adjacent to the University of Alberta farm.

If the proposal is implemented land will be deeded to the Dominion government on condition that the government furnish sewer and water to the districts, and build on each acre lot modern homes with basements. The cost of these homes would be approximately $4,200 to $4,800 depending on size. It is proposed to build four, five and six room bungalows.

Extension of the city's light and power lines will be made at no cost to the unit holders other than the usual monthly bills for electrical energy. Preference will be given to war veterans.

No "Harboring"

Gets Stiff Penalty For Bogus Coupons

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 26.—(CP)—Esko Koivula of Lower Capilano was fined $400 and $350 costs in police court yesterday when convicted of having counterfeit gasoline ration coupons in his possession. The high figure assessed Koivula for costs was largely accounted for by the bringing of a lithograph expert from Montreal to testify for the crown.

Lovesick Whale Tries Romance With Submarine

SEATTLE, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The story of a submarine and a lovesick whale was told yesterday by Lieut. Gilson Rohrback.

"We first saw this whale when we surfaced," he related. "He was swimming around and around, spouting and cutting all sorts of capers—making a regular showoff of himself.

"We couldn't figure out what it was all about at first. When we submerged, we could hear him on our sounding device coming closer and closer and making funny noises.

"Then we decided the whale was making love to us. He'd come right up alongside and affectionately nuzzle the ship.

"This went on for days and days before the whale was finally disillusioned and gave it up for a bad job."

Chances to Help

In this all-embracing war one doesn't have to go away from home or hunt up a job in a munitions plant in order to help the national effort, and the Allied cause outside Canada's direct line of responsibility.

For example, there is another and insistent call for waste paper. Carloads are being shipped out of this district every week, but still the call is for more. Canadians, it is said, are not salvaging half as much as they could, and therefore should. Waste paper is a nuisance around the house, but a vital need in war plants. Why not bundle it up and send it in to the depot, thus getting rid of the nuisance while helping the war effort?

Then there is the campaign to collect clothing for Russia. That surely deserves a helping hand. It does not take much reading or much imagination to understand that the Russians have been concentrating on war work as we in Canada have not had to do, and neglecting civilian production to do so. As everyone knows, vast areas in Russia were overrun by the enemy, swept clean of everything movable or destructible. And Russia is a cold country. Why not bundle up those unneeded garments and send them to the depot? They are needed, and they will bring comfort and cheer to hard-stricken and hard-working people in that Allied country.

Grain Crops

Canada's wheat crop last year is given by the Bureau of Statistics as 435 million bushels, of which the western provinces produced 411 millions. The 1943 crop amounted to 284 million bushels, western farms yielding 268 millions. The increase of 141 million bushels resulted from better weather conditions rather than increased acreage, and demonstrates again that it is impossible to plan wheat production in advance with anything approaching accuracy. Rain, sun, frost, hail and insects have as much to do in fixing the yield as the number of acres sown—sometimes more.

As the call is for still more feed grain this year, it is notable that last year's oat crop amounted to 500 million bushels, a gain of 28 millions over 1943. Barley, however, showed a drop of 21 million bushels, and rye yielded less than a million bushels more than the year before. The prospect that Australia can get the feed grain it requires in Canada is thus not very bright, considering the increased home demand because of continued expansion of the livestock branch.

For whatever reason, the 1944 yield of flax-seed was not much more than half the 18 million figure for 1943. As oil producing crops are urgently needed, and were strongly advised last year, this shrinkage must be supposed to have been due to something other than market or weather.

The chairman of the wheat board has ventured a guess that the wheat carryover at the end of this marketing year may not be more than 200 million bushels; less than half last summer's yield. Exports must in that case be making a new volume record for several past years.

Canada's Army Is Growing

Figures given out at Ottawa show that during the twelve weeks ending with Saturday of last week 17,637 men were added to the Canadian Army "for general service." The number was made up of 10,498 recruits from the general public, 6,044 conversions from the home defence forces, and 1,095 enlistments from the reserve forces.

In his statement to parliament on Nov. 23rd, General McNaughton said there would be needed in December 5,000 men, fully trained or in an advanced stage of training, 5,000 more in January, and 6,000 in succeeding months. A total of 16,000 as then foreseeable, 10,000 of whom would be needed in the two months of December and January.

It was announced a week ago that 8,300 men from the defence forces had landed in England, in addition to replacements otherwise provided for. And by Saturday last, General McNaughton says, the troop movement was completed.

Of the enlistments for the twelve-week period, men from the defence forces and reserve units have had military training, a total of 7,139. The 10,498 civilians who joined up will of course in most cases have been men without training, who will not be available for oversea service for some time.

The showing from these figures is that enlistments outnumbered reinforcements needed for December and January, with a margin of 7,000 to the good, and that the quotas of trained men required oversea during these months had reached English ports by the end of last week.

The gratifying facts are thus shown to be that trained men have moved oversea according to schedule, and that men are joining up for "general service" faster than trained men are departing. Canada's Army is not dwindling. It is growing.

Shuttling

The Nazis have staged another "march to the east." But it is inside Germany this time, and is aimed to stop an invasion, not to set an invasion going. The railways and roads from the western front are black with troops and vehicles shuttling across the width of the Reich to help block the Russians somewhere short of Berlin; almost anywhere will do, things being as they are.

This of course confirms the expectation that the enemy High Command plans to attempt a blockade at some suitable point, and has hopes that it can be done. It would not be worth while to shift forces from the one danger point to the other unless it were intended to make an all-out stand there. As well leave them where they were if defeat were accepted as being inevitable. The High Command still thinks it can beat off its assailants. That is the plain inference. The Allied peoples will do well to make a note of this, and not start cheering yet.

Likely enough some of these migrating troops dashed across Germany in the other direction a few months ago, to bolster the western front when things were quiet in Poland and Patton's 3rd Army was jabbing dangerously into the Saar Basin. The eastward trip is being made under worse conditions. German railways and main highways are in no condition to handle rush traffic, nor traffic in exceptional quantities; and the Allied airmen are out in force. Panzer divisions can be destroyed in transit as well as in battle, and a good deal cheaper.

No one can predict the events of tomorrow with assurance. But the present situation is precisely the one Herr Hitler has tried to avoid. He has to fight a two-front war; and fight it with diminishing and out-numbered forces. The Allies now have him where they wanted him and have planned to get him. The more shuttling he has to do, the more certainly will his whole formidable machinery wear out and ultimately crash.

Japan As A Cardboard Country

Block-Busters Needed to Flatten Nipponese Card-House

By Frischauer in the Magazine "London Calling"

As the bird's-eye view of Japan is becoming familiar to an increasing number of Allied airmen, engaged in systematic bombing of Japanese production centres, we should ourselves come down to earth about the industrial strength of our Far Eastern enemy.

Here, then, are close-up pictures of our airmen's principal objectives—rarely before published—vital information for all who are still unable to penetrate the artificial fog-screen with which successive Japanese governments have successfully tried to obscure their country's war potential.

These pictures may provide an answer to the question of how long the war against Japan will last; they will dispel any false sense of security or notions of the Japanese as a rural community living either in wooden shacks or paper and cardboard cottages, producing weapons of war with outmoded tools under mediaeval conditions.

How wrong! What a futile and dangerous delusion!

Some districts in Japan are not very different to the Ruhr or Birmingham, Manchester, Detroit or Chicago for that matter.

Experts on Japan—among them Joseph C. Grew, former Ambassador in Tokya—have long warned the world against a complacent under-estimate of Japan's industrial potential. When, with the conquest of Malaya, Burma, the Dutch East Indies and Indo-China, vast natural resources were added to this potential, the warnings assumed an ominous ring.

Japanese industrial plants could since that time be fed—to mention a few figures only—by an additional output of 2,500,000 tons of iron per year, by 9,000,000 tons of oil, 780,000 tons of rubber, 1,500,000 tons of copra. Add supplies of bauxite, chrome, tungsten, tin, nickel, manganese, manila, hemp, antimony, cobalt—and what else you like—and you will find that there is something in Japan's boast that she has mobilized of a "hundred years' war."

Experts, it is true add that, denied the time to exploit all these resources and the sheer inexhaustible numbers or available unskilled labor, Japan can be beaten very quickly. But time is on her side. The desired developments could be achieved within five years.

The facts are that Japan, rich in industrial plants and deposits as well as in unskilled labor, lacks tools, precision instruments, experts, and skilled workers. They are being trained at great speed; they must not be allowed to take their places at the extensive factory benches of Tokyo and Osaka, Yokohama, Kobe, Yawata, Nishitama, and Nagoya.

Although the idea of Japan as a cardboard country, built to withstand repeated earthquakes, is a myth, the industry of the country is vulnerable when it comes to dam-busting and bridge-blasting.

Water power provides huge plants with current; elaborate industrial architecture lies open to Allied bombers; once these bridges and viaducts are destroyed wide industrial regions can be paralized.

Let me give you a rough idea of the objectives which thousands of American and Allied bomber pilots are now studying as they have studied the lay of the land in Dusseldorf and Cologne, in Munich and Berlin. The Japanese objectives are in the hands of powerful families, just as was the case in Germany.

The names of Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Yashuda, and Okura stand in Japan for the more familiar names of Krupp, Thyssen, Junkers, Roechling in Germany. There heads of industrial combines twice trebled output after 1931, even before Japan launched out in war against the Allies. Steel production, based on Yamata on the southerly Kyushu Island, alone amounted to 15,000,000 tons per year.

Think only of the 14,000-odd factories of Tokyo which, with over 8,000,000 inhabitants, is today the world's third largest city. There are oil plants (Tsurumi), the big Miya locomotive works, the electric light power station at Senju, the naval loading arsenal on the bank of Sumida river.

Tokyo in many parts looks like a big European or American capital with long rows of modern buildings, banks, newspaper offices and the rest.

Osaka, again, the Birmingham of Japan, with an area of 82 square miles (population 2,759,000), imported in 1938 some £232,000,000's worth of goods and exported almost as much. There were over 5,000 industrial companies active at the time; their number is likely to have increased.

Osaka harbor handles some 100,000,000 tons annually and has berths for vessels up to 10,000 tons. The modern central section of the city boasts four stock exchanges and some 250 banks (plus branches).

Scarcely a cardboard Empire!

You can judge the capacity of the other big cities accordingly. Kobe harbor, for instance, is certainly impressive; Yokohama's industrial position is not inferior to that of Osaka. The cement factories of Nishitama, the Yawata steelworks, and many others, complete the picture of what we know.

There is bound to be much we do not know even now. Until Pearl Harbor, nothing was known in the U.S.A. of the notorious Zero fighter plane. There are many more Japanese production mysteries, many hidden factories, many industrial secrets which have not yet been penetrated.

They must be taken into account as we mount all strength to fight Japan as effectively as we are fighting Germany.

There are, it is true, a few inherent weaknesses in the industrial edifice of Japan. She is an island power subject to blockade; her shipbuilding capacity is not so great as the circumstances demand. Though self-sufficient and highly developed for war she cannot match the combined industrial experience of Britain and the United States.

But Japan is far from being what a rather romantic imagination of Far Eastern mysteries has made of her. Forget the "highly inflammable" shacks and bamboo huts; do not rely on the proverbial earthquakes to destroy the Japanese card-house.

It is better to take a good look at the solid industrial structure of Japan and rejoice that there are such weapons as "block-busters" and "earthquake bombs" to aid the Allies in their Far East war effort which is already taking significant shape.

Themes Dominating Fashions

Spring Clothes Are Spirited And Gay and in Lovely Colors

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

It is only the dead woman who is no longer interested in fashions.

Judging from the forecasts coming out of New York, we can expect some pretty wonderful creations this year.

Soft blues, flower trimmings, pert ruffles have never failed to arouse feminine approval. The ever popular black dress will again appear for day and evening with flowers appliqued at the neckline, on a sash or to trim a peplum—an innocent trick which women find irresistible.

One fashion designer created several outfits with the prominent reverse and extravagant collars, lacy jabot blouses and close, double-breasted jackets of the early 19th century.

Another designer makes use of handprinted silk scarfs for color accent. This flash of color is beautifully used, the scarfs being set into the body of the dress for midriff accent, neckline yokes and even to make a long over-blouse.

The silhouette which one designer features has many lines, with fullness often centred in the back. Look for this emphasis on back interest to develop. The deep armhole set into the bodice and underscored with machine stitching is another forward-looking detail; tends to give ease and softness to the figure without losing the broad-shouldered look.

Sports Clothes

Delectable mouth-melting colors, casual softness of line, and much provision for exposure to the sun are some of the distinguishing qualities of the summer sports clothes.

The short cap sleeve and the bareback dress with a convenient cover-up jacket is a style that makes a command performance this year and seems slated for even more success than last season. Despite the quantities of skin they will expose, the new costumes have a feminine air that is universally becoming.

A case in point is the black velvet bathing suit which permits the wearer to go into the water as well as near it. This surprising suit is made of a new processed velvet which takes to water like a duck. This decorative swim suit has wide shoulder straps and a bra-top which ties in the middle. Though partially attached to the skirt, it exposes some of the midriff. The gathered gores down the front and sides give dressmaker flattery; a stiff little coolie-type jacket in white tops this costume.

A dress to rival in brightness the rays of the sun is of novelty rayon weave in vivid red. The full wrap-around skirt which ties in back is enlivened with two vertical bands of white Irish crochet down the sides and on the deep patch pockets. The crocheting also edges the halter neckline and the cunning matching shorts of the same bright red.

Colorful Prints

The dress designers have a habit of jumping the gun a bit when it comes to the next season's styles. Thus the arrival of a bevy of blooming spring prints in the midst of a snowstorm is no great surprise, it does seem a little incongruous.

Prints this year are fresh and exciting, patterns are spirited and gay. Sleeves are brief or altogether absent, skirts are slightly fuller and there is much interesting drapery about the hipline. Colors are luscious and mouth watering. Greens and melon shades predominate, although dark with white accents is also seen.

The Chinese influence shows up in a dress of soft green—the shade of the inside of a cucumber. Tiny black tulips are scattered over the fabric and the tiered skirt is topped by a black patent leather belt. Short sleeves and a Mandarin collar complete this costume.

Many times this spring you will think, "Not one color, but many". That tells the color story in everything from coats to accessories. You can scarcely pick out one color family that is predominant, and in each group there are tones and more tones, for greater variety.

The designers use this wealth of color cleverly, planning each costume from the loom to the final trimming detail, for color and texture together decide the type of the fabric and its formality.

Powder blue, for instance, is a lovely color for a street-length wedding dress, when it is done in smooth crepe. It is a country color when you find it in flannel.

How To Listen

Christian Science Monitor

The symphony orchestra is, without doubt, the most interesting combination of instruments composers have yet evolved. It is equally fascinating from the listener's standpoint, for it contains within itself all instrumental combinations, of an endless variety.

In listening to the orchestra, it is wise to keep well in mind the four principal sections and their relative importance. . . . Don't concentrate on the string section alone, just because they are seated up front nearest you. Try to free yourself of bad orchestral listening habits. The main thing you can do in listening to the orchestra, aside from enjoying the sheer beauty of the sound itself, is to extricate the principal melodic material from its surrounding and supporting elements. The melodic line generally passes from one section to another or from one instrument to another, and you must always be mentally alert if you expect to be able to follow its peregrination. The composer helps by careful balancing of his instrumental sonorities; the conductor helps by realizing those balances, adjusting individual conditions to the composer's intention. But none can be of any help if you are not prepared to disengage the melodic material from its accompanying web of sound.

The conductor, if rightly looked at, may be of some help in this. He generally will be found giving his primary attention to the instruments who have the main melody. If you watch what he is doing, you may be able to tell, without previous knowledge of a piece, where the centre of your interest should be. It goes without saying that a good conductor will confine himself to necessary gestures; otherwise he can be most distracting.

Crossword Puzzle

Toronto Globe and Mail

In 1923 people were talking about flaming youth and bootlegging. There was turmoil in Europe over the occupation of the Ruhr, the reparations question and the German inflation. Tut-ankh-amen's tomb was discovered, and President Harding died, elevating Calvin Coolidge unexpectedly to the White House. Mussolini seized Corfu from Greece, but gave it back when the British lion growled. Alfonso of Spain was deposed, and Bonar Law's government was reformed under Stanley Baldwin. Lloyd George visited Toronto, and Sarah Bernhardt died in Paris.

In the midst of this seething confusion, a quiet little man had an inspiration. His name was Arthur Wynn. He was an artist and feature editor with a newspaper syndicate. Twenty years earlier he had come to New York from his native Liverpool, but in all that time nothing very exceptional had happened.

His inspiration was the crossword puzzle. Adroitly promoted through the newspapers, these simple word acrostics took the continent by storm. It cost no more than the price of a newspaper to play the game, and it could be played by one alone or with the assistance of the whole family.

People thought the craze would die, but it did not. Variations of all kinds developed: diagramless puzzles, puzzles devoted to selected themes; puzzles like those of the London Times, which need the widest knowledge of literature and the classics to make them even intelligible.

They still were going when the depression set in, and people had plenty of enforced leisure. Who knows what peace of mind, what release of tension that quiet hobby brought to the victims of unemployment? It took people's minds off their worries to figure out the word for a printer's measure, a three-letter African antelope, a nine-letter preposition, and all the others.

Arthur Wynn is dead. His idea may not have been perfectly original; but what does that matter? He brought pleasure, entertainment and even education to uncounted millions. Few could hope to do more in their lives. Few deserve a greater measure of gratitude.

If This Be the Eve of Victory

Next Week or So to Determine Duration of War With Nazis

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Since in this war military experts so often have been wrong a layman also may risk making mistakes. Just now, among the "experts" there is a laudable tendency to play safe on predictions regarding the Russian offensive, lest we suffer the same disillusionment we did regarding our own offensive in France.

Dorothy Thompson

Yet I believe the next week or so will determine whether the war against Germany is to be over in a matter of weeks, or months. At any rate the Russian drive, and ours in France, is not analogous. The Normandy front was defended by a relatively small part of the Germany army, whereas on the eastern front its bulk has been constantly deployed. Our break-through in Normandy allowed us to fill a military vacuum in the rear of the German front, and that accounted for our swift advance. The Germans had reserves to man a new western front at the most highly fortified lines in Europe—the Siegfried and Maginot forts.

On the eastern front, however, the bulk of the Germany army has suffered its most disastrous defeat of the war, and is streaming back, leaving its heavy equipment on the battlefield. There are no adequate reserves inside Germany to man a defensive line of such enormous length. All the Germans possess in reserves is their newly created "Volkssturm" or home guard. The few crack divisions they had possessed were thrown into the offensive in the west. Hence, numerous opportunities are offered to the advancing Red Army.

There is certainly no "East Wall" comparable to the "West Wall," which was meticulously built before Germany was at war. The protection of northeastern Germany depends on the fortress triangle in what used to be called the Polish "corridor"—Thorn-Posen-Graudenz. At the moment when this column is written (Monday) Russian troops are approaching Thorn and Posen, and if they overrun this fortress triangle northeastern Germany becomes, in my opinion, undefendable.

The southeastern Germany defense depends upon the maintenance of the line Breslau-Brunn, including the industrial bases of Upper Silesia. If this is overrun, Germany is laid open from the southeast and via Czechoslovakia, and a junction of the Russian forces in Hungary and in southern Poland could hardly be prevented. Again, as I write, the Red armies are standing immediately before this industrial centre and are threatening Breslau. So if any effective defense occurs, it must occur immediately—almost before these lines are published.

The Germans admit, for home consumption, they are surprised by the speed of the Russian advance. In fact, the German tone takes on a hitherto unknown hysteria. Although the factories and coal mines of this area are essential to the conduct of the war, German workers are being mobilized out of both to check the Russian onslaught, and are being told their lives or deaths are at issue, for the Russians intend to deport them in masses to Siberia.

The remarkable thing is that you and I as American citizens are not convinced as to the truth of this and other Goebbels and Himmler statements such as the threatened de-industrialization, partition, and even the end of any German state. I maintain this is truly astonishing. We may be on the eve of a victory over our enemies and we have no idea what that victory will mean.

Among us there are champions of a Carthaginian peace, and others who counsel moderation. The same is true in Britain. As far as the Soviets are concerned, we are equally at sea. The contradictory prognosis in the western countries are expressed in Russia by the incompatibility between Ilya Ehrenburg's articles, which seem to promise unlimited revenge, and the officially backed activities of the Free German Committee in Moscow, and especially of the union of German officers there.

Every threat of Dr. Goebbels as to the fate that awaits Germany and the German people has documentation from United Nations sources. An article of Professor Varga published more than a year ago, suggested as reparations to Russia the delivery of ten million Germans for forced labor. Yet, the President's speech before the foreign policy association, on October 21st contains these words: "The German people are not going to be enslaved, because the United Nations do not traffic in human slavery."

This, of course, leaves open the question of what is slavery. If the deportees were to be the SS it would be considered as just punishment of war criminals. If they are to be German workers—as the number suggests—the only comparison would be with Nazi methods themselves, which we have hitherto called "slavery."

Official utterances—Directly by Stalin, by Roosevelt, and by Churchill—present a quite different picture, however, and we shall review them in another column.

But at any rate, this must be the prime issue in the forthcoming conference between the three, which will take place, the President has said—"anon". We hope the "anon" means "in the near future" and is not an abbreviation for "anonymous"—anonymous armistice terms.

Province Pays Maternity Fees

The provincial department of health has paid more than $380,000 for hospital fees for maternity cases since the Maternity Hospitalization Act went into force last April 1, it was announced Thursday.

During almost ten months of providing free hospitalization for maternity cases the department has paid out $380,227.25 to approved hospitals and nursing homes throughout the province. During that period 12,159 mothers received the benefits of free hospitalization.

Under the act maternity patients who have resided in the province for 12 months are entitled to 12 days free hospitalization. Regulations cover special cases of women who have lived in Alberta but have been out of the province during the year previous to their confinement, owing to war work, or who have married members of the armed forces outside the province.

New Entomology Service Started

A new service of public health entomology has been set up by the provincial department of health to wage war against insect transmitted diseases, it was announced Thursday. The Alberta department is the first in the Dominion to set up a service of this kind, it was stated.

Work of the division will be in connection with such diseases as Rocky Mountain spotted fever, tularaemia, or rabbit fever; sylvatic or bubonic plague; encephalomyelitis and malaria. These diseases threaten to become a problem in this province if constant vigilance and control is not exercised, a spokesman said.

Entomological work has been carried on by the department of health for many years in the form of survey and investigation work.

Results of the surveys showed that valuable work could be done through public health entomology and so the division was set up last fall.

The survey was set-up jointly by the International Health unit of the Rockefeller Foundation, the Laboratory of Hygiene of the Department of Pensions and National Health, and the Alberta Provincial Health Department.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean
SPORTS EDITOR

IT MAY be just a coincidence and mean little, if anything, but Saskatoon Navy and Canadians who clash in a junior exhibition at the Arena here Saturday night, have been scoring goals against their league opposition at approximately the same rate all season. The same also applies to "goals against."

HMCS Unicorn juniors have registered 36 times in seven league fixtures as compared to the 61 goals in eight games by Canadians. Navy's net minder has been beaten 22 times and 24 have been marked up against Canuck goalies.

Canadians held a final workout at the Arena last night and there seems to be some doubt whether Cyril Thomas, Canadians' top goal-getter, will be able to start Saturday. A body-check while operating in a corner during Wednesday's game may have done more damage than was thought at the time. In any event Thomas was unable to remain on the ice last night, but the injury may respond to treatment in the meantime, so as to permit him to take part in the Navy game.

HEARD AT THE DINNER

CECIL (TINY) THOMPSON stopped all the pucks which came his way at the "get-acquainted" dinner tendered the junior Canadians by the Chicago Black Hawks' management last night. Pinch-hitting as host for President Bill Tobin, "Tiny" scored another shutout. And he did some nice blocking on a few of the dozens of questions fired his way.

How did he start goal keeping? "Well that's easy" says Tiny. "You see we had a complete hockey team at school, excepting for a goalie, and I was the smallest. It was simply a case of me for the goal—or else. And the nickname stuck too."

Howie Morenz gets the call from Tiny as the fastest skater. He named Aurel Joliat as the best stickhandler, Bill Cook as the greatest all-around player, and of course Eddie Shore, who worked years right in front of him as tops among defencemen.

"Neis Stewart—all 200 pounds of him—was simply dynamite in front of a net. If you fell down he lefted the puck over you—if you didn't he just knocked you down and then scored.

"Art Wiebe and Babe Seibert made the ideal defence pair," says Tiny. "Art bumped them and Babe took the puck."

And here's one too. "Tiny" played his entire 20 years of pro hockey with the same pads. They were 14 inches wide when he started out with Minneapolis. When the limit was set at 12, off came two inches and another two followed when the official width was reduced to ten. And "Tiny" still has the pads!

McSporran Fires Winner Against New Method; Burns Defeated 6-1

St. Rly. and Swifts Top Independent Loop

Pete Elock Tallies Five In Thriller

By DON KILLIPS

SECOND game of the Independent Hockey League at the Arena Thursday night turned out to be a "worrysome thing" for the two goaltenders, who between them let 15 pucks fly into the nets as Street Railway shaded New Method 8-7 in a thrilling free scoring contest. Swifts turned beak Burns Shamrocks 6-1 in the curtain raiser.

The victories for Swift's Silver Leafs and the city motormen enabled them to remain in a first place tie with three wins each, while the defeat for the New Method club ousted them from the top place tie with last night's winners.

Pete Elock, former local senior star, ran wild in the thrilling second game to roll up five goals and one assist for the laundry team, but three goals in less than three minutes of play near the end of the final canto spoiled his efforts and gave the Street Railway club the victory.

Alex McSporran, playing-coach of the railway puck-chasers, finished off the power drive by his team with a 15-foot drive as he netted the third in the final outburst that won for motormen.

Bob Crossland and Bob Graham were traveling in high gear again last night and banged in three apiece to pace the winners. George McSporran scored the other Street Railway marker.

Elock and Louie Holmes gave the laundrymen a 2-0 lead in the first period, but Street Railway came back in the second to grab a 4-3 margin.

Calvert tied it up early in the fast third canto, and Graham soon put the winners ahead again. It looked like the railwaymen would hold the lead until the end, but Elock opened up with a three-goal scoring spree and turned things the other way, putting New Method ahead 7-5. Then came the final outbreak by the winners. Graham banged in one from Crossland, Crossland out-witted Gordon Templeman in the laundry goal to deadlock the count for the fourth time and then McSporran picked up a loose puck from about 15 feet out and blazed one to decide the game in Street Railway's favor.

KILBURN SCORES THREE TO PACE SWIFTS CLUB

Colin Kilburn, regular goaltender for the South Side junior squad, again picked up the major share of the scoring as he paced Swifts Silver Leafs to their 6-1 triumph over Burns' Shamrocks, while playing up on the forward line.

Ben Hoffsteter, Doug Dunlop and Art Proulx netted the other Swift markers while Bill Danilowich was the lone sniper for Burns.

Proulx opened the counting midway in the second when he drove home a pass from Bill Mellon, and then before Burns' were able to come back and tie it up, Hoffsteter scored from Sherman Yelland at 4:21 of the second for what proved to be the deciding tally.

Danilowich went through by himself about two minutes afterwards to open the scoring for Burns, but after that Roy LaLonde turned aside every puck that came his way.

Kilburn fired two in a row before the frame was over, Doug Verville and Hoffsteter giving the passes to make it 4-1.

Kilburn and Verville combined on another early in the third and later on, when Burns' were shorthanded, Dunlop shot one past Jack Warner.

Canadians took a 4-0 lead in the first period, increased it to 7-0 in the second and then added seven while the Flyers were collecting one in the third.

Boxing To Be More Popular After War Says Cochrane

ELIZABETH, N.J., Jan. 26. —(AP)—Boxing will come out of the war as the most popular sport in the United States says Freddie (Red) Cochrane, the welterweight champion recently was honorably discharged from the Navy.

"I was on 34 different islands and every one of them had a home made ring and a boxing tournament," 29-year-old Elizabeth battler said. "Those kids really took boxing and in many places that was the only sport they could have. Some of the islands weren't as big as Stillman's gym.

"We followed the Seabees (navy construction workers) in and got to work right away to see the kids occupied in their spare time. You don't hear much about those guys they're too far away. And they don't hear much from the outside... No world series, no fights, just a score now and then, a couple of month-old news bulletins mixed in with some Hawaiian hula music."

When Red went upstairs in his roadside tavern to get some pictures from places like Aiea and Palmyra, Willie Gilzenberg, his manager, disclosed the champ had a 3.9 rating in the Navy after 3½ years service.

"That's just one point away from perfect," Willie modestly admitted as he began a dream of that $50,000 title fight with Ray (Sugar) Robinson, if and when.

University Cage Series Planned For Saskatoon

A round-robin basketball series in which teams from the Universities of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will compete, is planned for Saskatoon late in February. Both girls' and men's teams are included.

All of the western intercollegiate cage championship trophies will be at stake in the competitions which have been substituted for the swim meet agreed to at the joint conference held last spring.

The dates suggested by Alberta for the series are Feb. 24 and 25 and it is expected that Saskatchewan teams will come to Edmonton the following week.

Red Deer Ties Fliers for Lead By Trimming Wetaskiwin 12-6

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Jan. 26—Red Deer A-20 Wheelers swamped Wetaskiwin Training Centre 12-6 here Thursday night in a Northern Alberta Services Hockey League game. It was the first appearance of the Wetaskiwin sextet here this winter.

The locals ran up a 5-1 lead by the close of the first period and increased it to 9-3 by the end of the second.

Jack Culverwell turned the hat trick to pace the Wheelers to their one-sided win, which moved them into a first place tie with Edmonton's RCAF Fliers.

Wheelers opened the scoring parade within two minutes of the drop of the puck in the first chapter and slammed in five goals in succession. The visitors go their lone marker in the closing minute of the period.

Wetaskiwin started off strong in the second stretch and counted twice by midway through the period. The A-20 boys came to life then and rapped in four goals in the next eight minutes. The teams split scoring evenly in the final round, each hitting the net three times.

The superior condition of the winners showed to advantage and Wetaskiwin, with little practice, showed the effects of the fast pace. Both net men had a lot of work to do. Clampitt, for A-20 turned in a good performance, as did Stevenson for Wetaskiwin. He has just returned from overseas duty in which he was wounded three times. It was a great night for the scorers with all but three of the Wheelers figuring in the statistics.

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—Eddie Eagan, new chairman of the New York Boxing Commission, will tackle soon the most perplexing problem in all sports: the proper scoring of fights. He seeks an accurate, fool proof system to replace the dissatisfactory round by round method currently used in New York and many other states.

Blunt nosed Eddie, former Olympic and AEF champion, made this announcement at the annual boxing writers' dinner Wednesday night in Ruppert's Brewery, where Lt. Cmdr. Benny Leonard was presented with the Edward J. Neil award for outstanding contribution to the sport during 1944.

Eagen seeks a solution to the problem that has baffled experts since finish-fights faded out in most states in the early 1900's. Despite improvements in technique and staging during almost a half-century, no satisfactory method of scoring in which a full distance winner is determined entirely by the opinion of officials. Even racing has its photo finish camera to decide accurately the victor in close contests.

TOO MUCH DISAGREEMENT

CLOSE contests in the ring, however, usually result in disagreement among the officials—in split decisions, and sometimes draws. These verdicts nearly always are accompanied by vociferous disagreement among boxing writers and fans. This unfortunate situation prevails for the lowliest preliminary at a small club or for a million dollar heavyweight title fight.

Several recent decisions in New York provoked such widespread criticism and argument that chairman Eagan decided: "Here is my first major task as new head of the commission." In seeking a solution, he will hold conferences with ring officials and with boxing writers, meanwhile drawing upon his own experiences as an amateur boxing champion and as an official at amateur bouts.

It is likely that the ultimate new system will have point scoring as its basis. The point method is used in amateur leather tossing; also in professional bouts in Massachusetts and a few other states.

Eagan believes that the point method is fairer than the round by round, because the latter system gives a man no more credit for winning a round by a wide margin than for taking it by a shade. Hence, the totaling of points is more accurate than the mere totaling of rounds.

NEITHER SYSTEM PERFECT

HOWEVER, neither the point nor the round methods can achieve accuracy or agreement unless some standards of valuations and penalties are set for blows landed, damage done, aggressiveness, defensive skill, blows missed, holding, back pedaling, etc. There are valuations for judging figure skating, fancy diving, ski jumping, etc. Will Eagan attempt to calibrate the cauliflower craft?

Taxation Is Urged

the brief, however, were on the suggestion of the chairman, Mr. Justice McDougall, deleted, the deletions being accepted by counsel for the independent dairies.

OPENS SUBMISSION

Opening his submission Mr. Winspear said dairy pools and so-called dairy pools, in their advertising and publicity, invariably assume that the suggestion that pools should pay income tax on a basis comparable to independent enterprise is opposed to the interests of the farmer, and is, therefore, an attack on the farming community. There is an attempt on the part of the pools to express the view that their interests are synonymous with the interests of the farmer.

"This point of view is strongly contested by the independent operators. They are as rightly interested in the farmer as are the co-operatives, or so-called co-operatives, and in spite of all the inducements which dairy pools or so-called dairy pools, as a result of tax immunity, have been able to offer, in spite of enormous sums paid for propaganda and so-called educational purposes by the pools, the majority of dairy farmers in the Edmonton area still choose to sell their products through the independent dairy operators.

"It is, therefore, submitted that the interests of the farmer and the dairy pool are not necessarily synonymous," he continued.

"Furthermore, independent dairy operators do not resent competition; on the contrary they desire and welcome healthy and free competition, and they believe that those who desire are welcome to market their products on a co-operative basis and should possess the freedom to do so.

TAXATION IS URGED

"The independent dairy operators do urge that private organizations obtaining immunity, by the simple procedure of including the term "pool" or "co-operative" in their name, should be subjected to income and excess profits taxes on the same basis as those who do not indulge in such subterfuges. They urge also that co-operatives and private enterprise may and should operate on a basis of equality of taxation and freedom of competition.

"They recognize the necessity of high income and excess profit taxation as a war measure against inflation, as a measure of economic control, and as a necessary contribution to government revenues.

"They submit, however, that every Canadian has the right to expect that the incidence of such taxation fall as equally as possible on all those in competition with each other; and that immunity from taxation of a competitor is bound to seriously affect the willingness with which the income and excess profit tax levies are accepted by private enterprise," Mr. Winspear stated.

He recommended on behalf of the Independent dairy operators that the commission enquire into, or cause to be enquired into, the affairs of dairy pools in Alberta, and particularly the competitor of the independent operators in northern Alberta, namely, the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool Ltd., with a view to ascertaining whether or not the said pool is a co-operative under the provisions of Section 4 (p) of the Income War Tax Act and in accordance with the Rochdale principles.

AMENDMENT URGED

He recommended also that Section 4 (p) of the Income War Tax Act be amended with a view to clarifying the nature of a co-operative, the terms and conditions contained in the contract of membership, the effecting of mutuality by the elimination of the 20 per cent provision, and the removal of tax exemption for co-operative controlled financing concerns:

That Section 3 of the Income War Tax Act be amended to include in the definition of income, the amount placed in reserves by pools and co-operatives each year; that this might be expressed with respect to both producer and consumer co-operatives as the total sales for the period, less:

(a) Cost of sales.

(b) Such expenses as are ordinarily allowed for income tax purposes to corporation taxpayers.

(c) Patronage dividends paid in cash during the period:

That the act be amended to give the minister power to define the income of alleged co-operatives not complying with the provisions of Section 4 (p) as amended. Such sections might give the minister power to define the income of alleged co-operatives as:

(a) The spread between the selling price of the product and the amount paid to the producer at the time title to the product is received from the producer, less necessary expenses, or

(b) Such other basis as the minister of national revenue shall in his sole discretion decide, and in that connection the minister should have power to define that portion of the selling price which may properly be described as income, whether such portion has been paid to the members or producers in the form of patronage dividends, or otherwise.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

In so defining the income the minister should have power to take into consideration the fair rental value of land, buildings and machinery, owned and operated by the association, the fair return which ought to be derived from labor employed by the association, and or, a fair return on the capital invested in the assets of the association, whether such capital is represented in shares issued, participation certificates, members' deposits, contributions or loans, or in any other form which may in the opinion of the minister be properly designated as the equity of members in the said assets of the association.

Dealing with statistics relating to pools and independent creamery operators in northern Alberta, Mr. Winspear said there were 62 creameries north of a line projected east and west from the city of Red Deer. Of these, 21 are operated by the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool, three by the Central Alberta Dairy Pool, one by the Saskatchewan Co-Operative, three by local co-operatives, four by Woodland Dairy Ltd., one by Swift Canadian Co. Ltd., 23 by local independents and six are not operating.

He said that during 1944 the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool acquired control of 13 creameries, three cheese factories and two combined creameries and cheese factories, previously operated by Burns and Co. Ltd. In addition it has purchased during the past five years one creamery from a local independent owner. During 1943 the Central Alberta Dairy Pool Ltd., purchased creameries at Ponoka and Stettler from Burns and Co. Ltd.

ESTIMATED POUNDAGE

The estimated poundage output of the creameries, cheese plants and combined creameries and cheese plants now owned by the NADP for the year 1944 totalled 12,900,000 pounds, while cheese factories turned out 1,450,000 pounds of cheese.

During 1943 the total production in Alberta was 38,652,027 pounds of butter and 2,563,317 pounds of cheese. In the actual Edmonton area the retail sales of pasteurized milk are still largely in the hands of the independent creameries. During 1944, 14,315,564 quarts of milk were sold in Edmonton, and of this the NADP sales were approximately 2,700,000.

He pointed out that whereas most of the independent operators, as public companies, submit annual financial statements to all of their shareholders, and file financial statements with the companies' branches of either the Province of Alberta or the Dominion of Canada to make them available for public inspection, the NADP does not supply its members with statements, nor does it file financial statements with the registrar of companies.

"Under the provisions of the Co-operative Marketing Act it files financial statements with the supervisor of co-operatives of the Province of Alberta, but these statements are not available for public inspection. As a result it is difficult for the independent operators to obtain reliable data as to the financial position and the operating results of the NADP. However, in June 1940 the NADP announced that during the 12 years of its existence it had paid $468,437.00 to its 8,700 members. If to that the cash dividends of 1940 in the amount of $65,765.72 are added, it will be found that up to Dec. 31, 1940, it had paid to members out of tax-free profits the sum of $534,202.72, as well as "ploughing back" a net worth of $256,029.86," said Mr. Winspear.

PROFITS INCREASED

Furthermore, he added, there is reason to believe that for the year 1942, this organization made final payments and additions to its reserves, and issued participation certificates in an amount exceeding $260,000.00. It is also known that since 1942, with substantial increases in dairy production and increases in prices, the profits of dairy operators have tended to increase. During the past year the so-called pool purchased 18 dairy plants from Burns and Co. Ltd. paying for them approximately $600,000 in cash. It is therefore, reasonable to suppose that if the NADP were taxed on a basis comparable with private enterprise, it would be paying somewhere between $150,000 and $200,000 a year in income and excess profits taxes.

"On the other hand one of the independent dairies on whose behalf the submission is offered, made profits slightly in excess of $97,000 during the 1943-44 period, paid a total of $68,000 in tax to the Dominion government and had about $29,000 left. Another dairy in the 1944 period made a profit of approximately $42,000, paid taxes of almost $30,000, and had about $12,000 left, exclusive of the refundable portion," he said.

"It is submitted that the loss of government revenue is enormous and is cumulative in its effect. Firstly, there is the loss arising by virtue of the immunity of the so-called pools. Secondly, there is the pressure of unfair competition which will ultimately depress the operating profits of the independent organizations. Thirdly, there is the increasing tendency for independent operators to discontinue business and sell out their plants to the so-called pools.

"The net income after tax of one of the independent operators referred to, comprises a return of 5 per cent on shareholders' invested capital. The situation in its effect on governmental revenue may be expressed in this way: independents are in effect operating with profits frozen to a fixed return on capital.

"This fixed return may be either their pre-war level of profits less 50 per cent, a percentage on capital of between 5 per cent and 10 per cent as set by the board of referees under the Excess Profits Tax Act less 50 per cent, or such other standard profit as may have been allowed by the board of referees less 50 per cent.

PAID TO TREASURY

"Any profits which the independents make in excess of this fixed return are paid to the treasury of the Dominion government in the form of income and excess profits taxes. Co-operatives or so-called co-operatives may make a fixed return on capital, but any profits which they make in excess thereof are paid to their members in the form of patronage dividends, or utilized to create reserves for expansion and increase their facilities, or for propaganda (so-called educational) purposes", the brief said.

Mr. Winspear submitted that the NADP is allegedly not a co-operative entitled to immunity under the Income War Tax Act and the Excess Profits Tax Act because associate membership is a subterfuge and are in fact the general public. There is no obligation to pay to members either under the charter of the Pool, or under the Alberta Marketing Act, the proceeds of sales less the necessary expenses and reserves. The pool also performs manufacturing functions, whereas the Income Tax Act gives exception only to marketing organizations.

Supporting the contention that the NADP performs manufacturing functions, Mr. Winspear said that under its present scale of operations, and with sales which are said to be in excess of $3,500,000 annually, the pool must on occasion buy butter and other products from those who are not members, as well as from competitors.

SAYS PRODUCTS SOLD

The independent operators, he said, have sold considerable quantities of manufactured products to the so-called dairy pool.

"In the operations of this so-called pool during the year ended Dec. 31, 1940, it is known that of $887,000, constituting purchases of butter and butter-fat, $331,000 represented purchases of manufactured butter other than butter-fat purchased from its contract and associate members. With 37 per cent. of its total purchases made in the form of manufactured butter, and in that year 52 per cent. of the remainder made from other than contract members, it is obvious that this organization, posing as a co-operative, assuming for itself the privileges and immunities of a co-operative, is nothing more than a private manufacturing enterprise," he said.

"It should be kept in mind that under section 4 (p) of the Income War Tax Act, a co-operative must:

"Market the products of the members or shareholders of such an obligation to pay to them the proceeds from the sales on the basis of quantity and quality less necessary expenses and reserves.

ISSUE CERTIFICATES

"The NADP issues participation certificates to its members based on the quantity and quality of the goods supplied, but the certificate does not carry any obligation to pay of any kind, and is declared to be non-negotiable. No action can be taken to enforce payment at any time—payment of some of these participation certificates have been made years after they were issued. Others might at the discretion of the directors have been paid more expeditiously," he contended.

"The NADP is known to have made substantial purchases of Victory Bonds. The average Canadian, in buying Victory Bonds, recognizes that the interest on the bonds will be subject to income and excess profits taxes. Surely it is apparent that income from the investment of reserves, which must of necessity arise in operations on the scale of the NADP, are not properly immune from taxation.

"The situation is almost incredible; as such organizations become larger and larger, they have more and more reserve funds to invest. Today they are in a privileged position as compared with other Canadians in that they are obtaining tax-free securities.

"The NADP in its so-called patronage dividends allegedly returns to its members part of the selling price of manufactured products. This selling price, which is allegedly divided in the ratio of producer patronage, comprises earnings not only on commodities purchased, but earnings derived from the employment of labor and the rental value of land, buildings and machinery. Furthermore, the so-called patronage dividends include earnings from reserves invested in securities, and from trading in finished products. Surely such earnings cannot be properly described as an increase in the purchase price of its produce."

MONOPOLISTIC TREND

He said that the trend of the so-called dairy pools was towards monopoly. The NADP now markets nearly 13,000,000 pounds of butter annually, out of a total production of 38,600,000 pounds in all of Alberta. Its general manager stated in April, 1944 that "we now control all the territory on the CPR line south to Wetaskiwin and east to the Saskatchewan border."

Mr. Winspear said that the danger of monopolistic control by these so-called co-operatives is imminent and significant because the independent operators are precluded after paying a reasonable return on capital to their shareholders from creating reserves for expansion.

They are subject to the control of the tax department with respect to advertising expenditures, salaries and wage paid, and other expenses incurred, he said.

Tax immune enterprises, such as the dairy pool, are not subject to such controls, and made and do make, tremendous appropriations for so-called co-operative education but which is in fact advertising.

Furthermore the independents are now facing all the disabilities of enterprises with restricted capital, facing the competition of large and heavily capitalized expanding enterprises committed to a policy of expansion to a point of monopoly.

DEMAND SAME IMPOSTS

The independent operators submit that their competitors should be subjected to the same imposts of income and excess profits taxation because the independents are in many instances small local enterprises arising from the investment of local capital. They submit, said Mr. Winspear, that they should not be driven from business by government action through invisible subsidy.

Mr. Winspear said that conditions had changed since tax immunity had been granted to co-operatives. He said that no group of citizens under existing conditions with their country at war and with existing rates of taxation, expect to obtain legislation through the Dominion parliament, which would grant the tax immunity now enjoyed by co-operatives.

When the act was passed in its original form in 1917 the rate of taxation for corporations was six per cent. for income in excess of $3,000. The exemption of co-operatives was no doubt considered reasonable as a measure of invisible subsidy to an infant industry. Now, however, income tax and excess profits taxes on corporate incomes range from 40 to 80 per cent., and what might then have been considered a reasonable concession in 1917 has now become a weapon of competition oppressive to privately-invested capital, he said.

PROBLEM ELSEWHERE

"Whereas the independent dairy operators in Alberta are not primarily concerned with the operations of true co-operatives, since they are satisfied that their main competitor is not in fact a true co-operative, they recognize that the taxation of true co-operatives is a problem elsewhere in Canada and may well become a problem to them.

"They recognize the administrative difficulties of defining the income of true co-operatives, and they therefore recommend that such co-operatives should be taxed on that portion of their income which is not returned to their members in cash each year, and that true co-operatives should be taxed on investment income and non-trading profits."

Concluding his submission, Mr. Winspear said:

"The independent operators reiterate that they are not motivated by any spirit of hostility to the co-operative movement. They submit that the interests of the farmer are not necessarily the same as the interests of the so-called co-operative. They strongly urge that no concern should obtain tax immunity by simply including the name "pool" or "co-operative" as part of its name.

"They urge that the right to carry on manufacturing activities without the investment of fixed capital with a fixed return, is contrary to the principle of mutuality. They urge that true co-operatives which withhold earnings and invest them in securities and other reserves, should be taxed on the amount of such earnings. They urge that the interests of the people of Alberta will be served by the continuance of private enterprise in competition with co-operatives, so that initiative in the investment of capital will not be discouraged, so that the democratic system of check and balance may continue, and so that producers and consumers may choose with whom they will deal."

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Lord Wardington, chairman of Lloyds Bank, Ltd., yesterday criticized what he called the British government's "excessive tenderness" towards the United States and said that "America is fully aware that the prosperity of one depends upon the prosperity of all, and that she will suffer if we are poor."

Lord Wardington said Britain appreciated Americans' help, but added that "we are not paying them a compliment when we treat them as if they were so thin-skinned that they take offence at any action on our part which might be described as competitive."

Scottish Bard Commemorated By Burns Club

Fifty members of the Burns Club celebrated the 186th anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns Thursday night in the Macdonald hotel. Hailed as "a delightful analytical description of the one we honor," the address to "The Immortal Memory" was given by Dr. R. K. Gordon, acting dean of arts and science, University of Alberta.

Club president Judge J. Boyd McBride, was chairman and toastmaster. His Hon. L. Gov. J. C. Bowen, patron of the club, was guest of honor. Other guests at the head table were the Hon. Lucien Maynard, KC, attorney-general, and Judge Lucien Dubuc. Also seated were the Rev. K. C. McLeod, club chaplain; Gilbert M. Blackstock, KC, James Walker, and R. J. Jamieson, vice-president.

Members and guests paraded the corridors to the drawing room to the strains of pipe music provided by Pipe-Major John Robertson, DCM, and Arthur Miller, club piper. Later the haggis was piped to tables, held high on silver platters by Alex Frame and Robert Steele. Honors to the haggis were expressed by T. H. Campbell.

There were toasts to His Majesty the King, the Allied forces, and to the lassies, to all of which the club choir responded with appropriate songs.

WIDE APPEAL

Dr. Gordon said there was something about the poetry of Burns that has endeared his verses to many who cared for none other, that caused Woodsworth to write, "Deep in the general heart of men his powers survives." Scholars have edited the poetry of Burns with the thoughtfulness and patience devoted to the interpretation of great classics. In seeking a portrait of him there was one sure guide and one only, Robert Burns himself, he declared.

"He has put himself before us, in prose verse, fully and frankly in all his moods. Over 700 of his letters have survived and they have been edited without omissions and without pious tinkering. In these letters and in his poems he stands before us, unabashed and many-sided."

Mr. Blackstock in the toast to Scotland painted a word picture of that land "which to many of the club members will long remain but a memory" and told of the beauties of its glens, rivers, hills and cities. Scots, he said had played a part in the unification of Britain and of the Empire.

TOAST TO CANADA

Toasting Canada Mr. Walker recounted its history filled with adventure, daring and enterprise that rolled back the curtain and revealed a continent. He felt that perhaps Canada had a great part to play in the days to come.

Artists entertaining beside the club choir and pipers, included Tom Fyfe, Hamish Gillespie, LAC R. J. Davidson and Jack Williams, who gave solos and Ralph R. Couper, club pianist.

The appeal is being heard in supreme court chambers by Mr. Justice Hugh John Macdonald. W. Stanley Ross is acting for the crown with H. A. Mackie, KC, for the appellant.

Twice Overseas In War City Flier At Home, Hears of Winning Award

Overseas twice in the present war, shot out of the thundering skies of Europe and back home to be married, FO. John R. MacDonald of Edmonton Friday took the announcement of his being awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross as "just another GI issue".

"I don't know what they've given it to me for," he said when a reporter called at his home to find him looking not much like an air force officer but certainly like a very comfortable young man taking it easy on a well-earned leave. However, he agreed that the DFC was a nice award to receive, and with the Canadian Volunteer Service ribbon and clasp already on his tunic, his left breast pocket will have plenty of color.

JOINS IN 1940

The 27-year-old flier joined the RCAF in 1940 and after receiving his wings at Summerside, P.E.I., went overseas in 1941 to fly on intruder and bombing missions in Blenheim and Mitchell bomber aircraft. It was during this period that on a raid on Bologne harbor in France, a piece of enemy flak struck his aircraft on the bombing run, killing one motor immediately. The crew nevertheless finished blasting the target, then circled round and limped back across the channel. Unable to gain much altitude because of the crippled kite the plane was "duck soup" for Nazi flak-gunners and MacDonald claims it was a lucky break to get back home at all. They finally pranged their aircraft about 50 yards from the airfield, where it burst into flames. MacDonald was burned and carried off the field. The navigator, a Sudbury man, received the DFC for that escapade.

BACK IN CANADA

Returned to Canada for eight months, FO. MacDonald, then newly-commissioned, served as instructor at Penfield Ridge, N.B.

In July, 1944, he was posted overseas and again he served on bombing missions, this time penetrating much deeper into Europe than on his first tour of duty out of England. Another Edmonton man, Flight Sgt. Don McKinnon, since reported missing, was one of the fliers with whom he served at that time.

FO. J. R. MacDONALD, DFC

Now FO. MacDonald is back home again. He expects to leave the service shortly to return to Civvie Street—and as of Saturday night he will be the proud possessor of a brand new wife. He's being married to Miss Lillian Boyce, of Suite 12, Devonshire apartments, and over the week-end will leave for Winnipeg on a short honeymoon. Meanwhile he's staying at the home of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Heath, of 10532 128 street.

The son of Mrs. J. R. MacDonald and the late Mr. MacDonald of Calgary, the airman was born in Calgary and educated here at Highlands Public and Eastwood High schools. After leaving school he worked for four years in the imperial bank's main office.

Three Arrested After Break-In

Twelve hours after he and three companions heard charges of breaking and entering against them withdrawn, Cecil William Harte, of Edmonton, again found himself in the hands of the law, and was charged with burglary, according to city police. A companion, Harry J. Christiansen, also of Edmonton, charged with possessing stolen property and a 16-year-old Patson youth were also under arrest.

The arrests were made about 10.45 p.m. Thursday, following investigations into the breaking and entering of the Calder home of Bernard St. Pierre and Edward Dalton, 12415 130 street, from which numerous articles were reportedly stolen.

Investigations showed that a piano accordian, valued at more than $200, a clock, a suit of clothes, a shirt and an ashtray had disappeared. The musical instrument was located soon after in a second-hand store.

Detective-Inspector H. B. Petheram, Det.-Sgt. Murdo Munro and Det. Alex. Stevenson, made the triple arrest in a downtown section of the city.

Harte pleaded guilty to the burglary count when he appeared before Magistrate L. R. Jackson in city police court Friday, and was remanded for sentence until Jan. 31. Christiansen, who entered a not guilty plea to a charge of possession of stolen property, was likewise remanded to the same date.

Evidence that the bicycles ridden by Gale McGregor and Patrick McCallum were not equipped with headlights and reflectors on the night of the accident in which they received injuries which resulted in death was given Thursday afternoon by Const. The accident occurred on Nov 10, 1944, between 134 and 135 street on 102 avenue. The boys were riding home from a Wolf Cub meeting at Grandin school when they were struck by an automobile operated by the accused.

Calder, president of the Dairy Corporation of Canada, will continue as managing director of Silverwood Dairies Western Limited. Silverwood, was born and raised at Lindsay, Ont., and is a prominent member of the United church and the YMCA.

NADP Manager Says No Profit For Taxation

Maintaining that the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool is an association of farmers or dairymen organized on a co-operative basis, and that the association acts as factor or agent only to market produce delivered by its members under the obligation to pay to its members the full proceeds of the sale of such products less only operating expenses and necessary reserves, Russell Stanley, manager of the NADP, told members of the Royal Commission on taxation of co-operatives Friday that as the association was bound to its members with respect to all money received from the sale of their products, and that there is, therefore, no profit to be taxed.

He said that the obligation to pay members for their products was contained in the memorandum and articles of association and contract, and that the NADP allocated proportionately each year among its members the full proceeds of such sales, less only the necessary operating expenses and reserves.

He testified that the volume of business with non-members does not exceed on any basis of calculation 20 per cent of the business of members, and for these reasons the association has consistently maintained that it is exempt from taxation under the provisions of the Income War Tax Act.

Opening his testimony before the commission, Mr. Stanley, who was questioned by J. V. H. Milvain, K.C., Calgary, counsel for the NADP, reviewed the history of dairy co-operatives in the province. He said that the movement toward co-operative marketing of dairy products seems to have commenced in the early 1920's.

The movement, he said, arose out of the discontent prevailing among farmers throughout the province as a result of the depression following the Great War and the decline in farm prices of farm products which then occurred.

The initial co-operative efforts of the farmers was to market their products through established commercial outlets, but it was realized that they could not obtain their full objective of better prices to the producer as negotiating bodies and decided to enter the processing field.

It is probably safe to say, Mr. Stanley stated, that a very decided factor leading co-operative dairy organizations entering upon manufacturing of butter was the encouragement given by the government of the Province of Alberta. This encouragement was extended through the supervisor of co-operatives who had been appointed to encourage and assist in the development of co-operative marketing associations.

The government also passed the Co-Operative Marketing Associations Guarantee act as part of the deliberate plan. By this act the provincial treasurer was authorized to make loans to assist co-operative marketing associations in acquiring land, plant and equipment.

He outlined the memorandum and articles of association of the three dairy pools organized in the province to manufacture and market dairy products. He emphasized that all three pools were organized on the basis that marketing contracts be entered into with all members.

THE QUESTION

Hitler's mad war-mongering nation appears to be crumbling rapidly to defeat. Now it is stated that out of sheer spite the continent of North America will be bombarded by V-4, a super-rocket bomb, at the last moment. Do you think this is likely to happen?

THE ANSWERS

J. ASHTON, transport driver: I would not be the slightest bit surprised if some V-bombs land on North American soil. At the same time I don't think they will cause panic or serve the Germans any useful purpose.

* * *

G. McNISH, teacher: It is quite probable that the Nazis have a weapon that can hit at this continent. It is also likely they will use it when ready. It will have not the slightest effect on the outcome of the present war, but it makes one think about what war 10 or 20 years from now will be like.

* * *

I. McMILLAN, welder: I would think the Nazis were bluffing were it not for the fact I thought they were bluffing about other secret weapons they boasted of. I would not be at all surprised if the V-weapons are used against this continent before the final capitulation of the enemy.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Man Older Than Wife Is Important Factor

Marriage to Older Man Is Superior to Insecure, Not Dependable Boy and Girl Unions; Girl Should Think of This

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 19, soon to be married to a man of 28. Is he too old for me? I love him very much and want above all things to be a good wife, but I am very young and ignorant and have no mother to advise me and I feel very helpless. So will you please tell me how to keep my husband happy. If I were your daughter, what would you say to me?

A BRIDE-TO-BE.

Answer—I think it is very fortunate you are marrying a man nine years older than yourself, because he is more mature, has more knowledge of the world than you have and will know better how to develop you into the sort of wife he wants than a boy of your own age would.

The reason the boy and girl marriages end in divorce so much oftener than any other marriages is because they are both undisciplined children who have not learned how to control themselves, or use any tact in getting along with others. Also, young boys seldom have any way of adequately supporting a family and, unfortunately, wives have to eat and wear clothes.

So a girl is wise to pick out for a husband a man who has gotten settled in some sort of business that will enable him to offer security to the girl he marries.

If I had a daughter who was going to be married, I should say to her: "Make up your mind before you marry that you have gotten a man you can respect as well as love, because no wife is happy unless she has a husband to whom she can look up. The drunkard, the roue, the ne'er-do-well may fire your fancy before marriage, but the flame will die down to ashes if you marry one of them and have to go to work to support him.

"Make marriage your career. Put as much work and thought into making it a success as you would into making a go of any other enterprise into which you had put all that you possessed of money, intelligence and industry. Learn to be a good cook and housekeeper. Make your home the most comfortable and attractive spot on earth to your husband. Keep yourself always neat and tidy. Keep yourself interesting to talk to. Be a good companion. Try as hard to please your husband as you would an employer.

And, finally, and this is most important of all, don't take your husband for granted. Keep telling him how much you admire him and how grateful you are to him for his kindness to you. Before marriage the man is the lover. After marriage the wife has to be the lover.

KEEP BABY

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married to a soldier who is overseas. We were married two years before he went into the service and have a baby close to a year and a half old. There is no trouble between my husband and myself, but he keeps begging me to promise him that if he should be killed in the war that I will give the baby to his parents to be reared. He says he can't bear to think that if he should die and I should remarry that the baby might call some other man "daddy". He says if I love him I will do this one thing for him.

Now I do love my husband and I have been as true to him as any wife could be, but I simply can't give up my child. Anyway, the baby is my responsibility and I am going to stick by him. His mother has done her duty rearing her family. I hate to add one more unnecessary trouble to my husband, but I simply can't do what he asks of me.

DISCOURAGED WIFE.

ANSWER: Don't think of doing such a thing. If you gave up your child, as your husband wants you to do, he would have contempt for you and think you had no loyaltiy, or sense of responsibility, or even natural affection in you.

Write your husband to put all such crazy, jealous thoughts, as the ones he is nourishing, out of his mind. Tell him that you are going to keep your baby, no matter what happens, and that if he should be killed, which God forbid, the child would be all the dearer and more precious to you because he would be a pa of him. Tell him that one reason why you love the child so much is because you love him and see him in the little chap.

Don't judge your husband too harshly for his asking this crazy thing of you. It is the war hysteria that is affecting so many men and making them so needlessly jealous.

THESE WOMEN—"Just right, sir—not too baggy for you, nor too snug for your wife!"

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

When your baby or child can't sleep at night as it should be expected a child would, either refusing to go to sleep until the family does, or waking4 in the middle of the night and causing a hullabaloo, then look to the naps.

A mother is often very happy to see the child sleep long hours in daytime, she thinks it is good for him and she gets a lot done, but she forgets that a child cannot sleep all of the time. If he takes a lengthy afternoon nap this may prevent him sleeping soundly at night. As he grows, his hours of daytime sleep gradually decrease until it may be necessary for the mother to choose between an afternoon nap or a good night's rest.

The weak and anemic child may sleep well both day and night. The child who is bursting with energy may always sleep less than the standard charts would indicate and may drop the daytime nap sooner.

When a long afternoon nap cannot be blamed for the night-wake-fulness, then be critical of the diet. The well-fed child sleeps soundly when he does sleep and should not waken half a dozen times at night. If he does there is always the temptation to woo him back to sleep with rocking, drinks of water, or worst of all—bottles of milk.

Mrs. F. J. has a child who sleeps poorly at night. "He is 14 months old", she writes, "and I haven't had a night's rest since he was born. He won't drink milk from a cup in daytime but he wakes every two hours at night and drains a bottle of milk. I am up at all hours fixing bottles for him. I'd like to break him of this habit but I am afraid not to give in to him because he drinks so little milk in daytime".

The night-feedings are obviously one cause of his poor sleeping. You must figure that if other babies can go without feeding at night as early as four to six months, yours at 14 months certainly does not need it.

Stop worrying about how much milk the child drinks. Give him a well-rounded diet and fortify all the foods with milk. Offer him a small glassful, or spoon some into him at the end of each meal and if he refuses don't worry about it. Try buttermilk or sweet milk flavored with fruit juices as a change. He might enjoy those.

Give him water every time he wakens at night and he will soon get over the habit of waking for that. Your troubles are probably all dietetic ones. The sleeping is merely a symptom pointing to that.

Our leaflet, "Diet from One to Two Years", may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

Scientists have found that the popular idea regarding people with high foreheads is without foundation. They say that the shape of the head and the height of the forehead do not prove anything regarding intelligence of the person concerned. Many people of low intelligence have high foreheads; while some of the world's greatest scholars have had sloping foreheads and low hair lines. The whole idea regarding personality traits, intelligence, and special abilities as related to the shape of the head has been discarded by scientific men.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

LADY OUT OF LUCK

The temperature in our office is maintained in the high seventies, often almost eighty, and the windows are kept closed and locked (complains the Lady Out of Luck). As a result my head becomes stuffy and each afternoon I get a nasty dull headache which decreases my efficiency and causes much misery.

The feeling of the others in the office have is that draughts cause colds and hot air is the only thing that will prevent colds.

I still wear light summer clothing, which is far from comfortable when waiting for a bus forty minutes on an open corner. I remove as much clothing as I decently can when in the office, and I drink lots of cold water.

I thought "colds" were caused by germs which breed in hot air. I know I have never had so much "cri" as since I began work in this office. Their theory doesn't seem to work so well—the average absent time of people in this office in two months is more than I have had in two years.

My only solution seems to be to leave the job. I don't want to do that, for I like my work, my bosses are grand, and I need the security I have here. Can you suggest any alternative? I really feel desperate. (Miss .....)

You are out of luck, Lady, because not only the large majority of your fellow workers and your bosses, but a majority of old fogy doctors and the so-called health authorities in your benighted community believe drafts cause disease and you may as well save your breath as try to change the alleged minds of such people. An old fogy is an old fogy and he or she just knows better about such things than any doctor does.

Here is a typical exhibit. In a metropolitan newspaper the city health officer warned recently that the season for coughs and colds was directly ahead . . . and urged people to safeguard themselves against sickness by avoiding overeating, drinking, fatigue, drafts, sudden chilling and contact with persons already ill. And as though that wasn't enough hokum, the health officer "pointed out" that "lowered body resistance usually brings on a cold." The health officer knows as much about "body resistance" as I do about ectoplasm—and so does any one else.

I can suggest one remedy for the trouble. Install in one or more windows full sash size screens of unbleached muslin. In schools offices, sleeping rooms and work rooms this method of air conditioning has been found satisfactory. Wind, drafts, snow, dust, insects, rain are excluded but fresh air and desirable moisture are admitted. The comfort and efficiency of occupants are increased, fuel is saved, skin and mucous membranes are less dried out and irritable, respiratory diseases are less prevalent.

Brilliant Performance Given By Violinist at Celebrity Concert

Appearing at the Empire theatre on Thursday night in the Celebrity Series of concerts sponsored by the Women's Musical Club, Ricardo Odnoposoff, gave a display of artistic brilliance that sparkled even at a time when technique has been developed to a greater extent than ever before, and when even exceptional executive resources are taken for granted.

His triumph—for it was a triumph complete and unequivocal—was all the sweeter because he came unknown and practically unheard of by concert-goers here as a substitute for Nathan Milstein, who was stricken by illness, but whose work is familiar through frequent appearances as soloist in broadcast performances of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society.

FORMLY ESTABLISHED

Mr. Odnoposoff established himself firmly as a front rank performer, as evidenced by the voluminous applause lavished on him, and the fact that he was called upon to play no fewer than five encores.

From the outset he proved a well-schooled, thorough musician, with earnestness and sincerity adding to the impressiveness provided by his technical resources.

Accompanying his highly-developed technique was a clean-cut, easy type of playing. Inherent musicianship and extensive temperament contributed to his tone, which was impeccable as to correctness, rich in quality and sufficiently voluminous for all purposes. Comprehension and mastery were salient features of the concert as a whole.

To the Cesar Franck Sonata in A Major he brought the refined style required by the masterpiece. He understood fully the character and portent of this work, with the result that the tempo employed and the delineation of the successive movements gave it the sensitivity and moderation demanded.

A HIGHLIGHT

The playing of the Bach Chaconne was a highlight even with Mr. Odnoposoff. Here all his tremendous facility, inborn musicianship and ability to develop to the utmost all opportunities for striking effects were shown to admirable advantage.

He did some of his most amazing playing in the Paganini-Wilhelmj Concerto in D Major. Also on the program were Sarasate's Caprice Basque; the Mompou-Szigeti Maidens in the Garden, which had to be repeated; Mignone's Variations on a Brazilian Theme, dedicated to Mr. Odnoposoff and Szymanowski's Nocturne and Tarantella.

ENCORES AT END

Encores at the end of the program were Rimsky-Korsakrov's Flight of the Bumble Bee; Paganini's Campanella; Schubert's Cradle Song and Kreisler's Love Song.

At the piano was Otto Herz, who has proved his worth here before. He was an admirable assistant and partner to Mr. Odnoposoff, who frequently shared the applause with him. Elsie Muriel Mills proved an attractive and efficient help-mate for Mr. Herz in turning pages, in the Franck and Szymanowski in particular.—J.O.

The fourth hand sent to me by Dr. Paul Stern of England involves a rather pretty play. The hand was made by Joe Pearlstone. However, I am afraid most of my readers will say Mr. Pearlstone failed to get himself into the best contract, which is three no trump, but I will admit after getting into five diamonds, he played the hand well to make it.

Dummy's queen won and Pearlstone discarded the deuce of hearts. He then led a small club from dummy. East refused to go up so South's jack won the trick. Now he led the queen of hearts, won with the ace, and returned the nine of hearts, discarding the deuce of clubs. West had to win and now, regardless of what he returns, it gives the declarer a ruff in dummy so that he can slough his losing four of clubs.

B.C. Car Operators Get Wage Increase

VANCOUVER, Jan. 26.—(CP)—A basic wage increase of 4½ cents an hour for all members of the Street Railwaymen's Union (AFL) in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, B.C., has been granted by the Regional War Labor Board, M. H. McGeough, board administrator, announced last night.

The decision was handed down after a two-day meeting of the board here following an application by the union for a six-cent basic wage increase and other working adjustments.

Labor board officials said the 4½-cent increase would be effective from March 1, 1944, the day a union agreement with the company expired.

In addition, the board announcement said, special workers, including Victoria city and University of British Columbia bus operators, would receive an additional 3½-cent basic wage increase effective March 1, 1945.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, Jan. 26—(Reuters)—Weekend considerations resulted in some restriction on activity on the stock market today but the undertone was generally firm.

With yesterday's late profit-taking well absorbed industrials again met a steady investment inquiry. Small investment support reappeared for British funds which occasionally hardened 1-16 while British railways were also on the turn higher.

Flour Purchased By West Indies

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26—(CP)—West Indies buyers bought a small lot of Canadian flour today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Rye futures were firmer, scoring upturns of nearly three cents a bushel late in the session. Advances were attributed to light offerings, modest support from shippers and American interests and a strong tone in the Chicago market.

Closing prices were 1½ to three cents higher with May at $1.19⅝.

Says Auto's Speed Seemed Ordinary

Evidence that John W. DeGruchy, Edmonton, was driving at an ordinary rate of speed was given by Miss Kay Simpson, 10220 131A street, only eye-witness to the accident in which two teen-aged Edmonton boys received injuries which proved fatal and as the result of which DeGruchy is now on trial on manslaughter charges before Mr. Justice H. H. Parlee in supreme court.

She said that while waiting for a bus she noticed the DeGruchy car approaching. Its speed she added "was about the same as that of the bus, and did not appear out of the ordinary."

Frank Bates testified that he had driven constantly over the avenue on which the accident occurred. He said the lighting was not good.

Alfred Lee, a friend of the accused, said that DeGruchy was a careful driver.

Robert Olson testified that he had driven along 102 avenue immediately prior to the accident. He could not see anything of the two boys on the bicycle until warned by his wife, who was riding with him, of their presence on the road.

Measurements made by the police and submitted to the court showed there were skid marks on the hard surface and gravel crown for a distance of 22 feet before the car left the highway, and the marks continued for a distance of 44 feet in the grass bordering the avenue. The car came to rest against two trees about 183 feet from the first skid mark.

Witness Relates Figures on Dairy

If the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool had been subject to the same war and excess profits taxes as the independent corporations during the years 1940 to 1943 inclusive, it would have paid approximately $685,000 in taxes, Francis G. Winspear, Edmonton chartered accountant, told members of the Royal Commission on taxation at Friday morning's sittings. He estimated taxes for 1944 would be approximately $300,000 to make a five-year total of $985,000.

The statement was made in answer to a question by Gerald O'Connor, KC, counsel for the independent dairies who is associated with Mr. Winspear in presenting the brief for the 14 independents in Northern Alberta.

Mr. Winspear said that examination of the financial statements of the NADP for 1940-43 inclusive showed that if co-operative had been taxed it would have paid $68,654 in 1940; $140,480 in 1941; $207,884 in 1942, and $368,442 in 1943, exclusive of the refundable portion of the taxes, a total of $685,000.

He said that if the same trend continued it was estimated that the tax in 1944 would be approximately $300,000 by a reasonable and conservative estimate.

"That would make a total of more than $985,000 in the five years," Mr. O'Connor asked. "Yes, approximately $1,000,000, the witness replied.

Say No Increase Cigarette Prices

There has been no increase in the price of cigarettes in Canada and consumers are asked to pay no more than current prices for cigarettes. Neither is an increase in price likely in the near future as no shortage exists.

This statement was given out Friday by Walter S. Campbell, price and supply representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Edmonton following circulation of persistent rumors that some retailers were charging more than current prices for cigarettes.

Expect Result of Vote Next Week

Results of the overseas servicemen's vote are expected about the end of next week, R. A. Andison, chief electoral officer, said Friday. He said that as far as he could learn good progress is being made in assembling and counting the ballots.

The last ballot in the election of three servicemen as members-at-large in the Alberta legislature should be cast next Monday. It is expected that James Thomson, chief overseas returning officer, will cable results a few days later.

Thirty-two candidates are contesting the seats and final results of the vote will be announced by Mr. Andison.

Strike Action Fund Started By Farm Body

Creation of a special fund, to be utilized in the event of a farmers' production strike, was authorized by the Alberta Farmers' Union convention in Edmonton Thursday night.

Collection of the fund will begin this year with a levy of 25 cents on each AFU member. Payment, however, will not be compulsory. With present union membership standing at 20,000, maximum amount that can be collected in 1945 will be $5,000.

A motion to set up the fund was proposed by W. E. Wilson, Cherhill. Similar proposals were submitted to the convention by 17 AFU locals, four district conventions, as well as the union board of directors.

SPEAKS TO MOTION

Speaking to his motion, Mr. Wilson said "You can't get very far in any direct action attempt without funds. Millions and millions of dollars are arrayed against us . . . we have 20,000 members. At 50 cents each we could collect $10,000 a year.

"We feel we must have a fighting fund on hand at all times. The time when we need the money will be later, when times are not so good," delegates were told.

Henry Kelly, Millet, proposed an amendment to the motion requiring that no action be taken on collection of the action fund until 51 per cent. of AFU members have declared in favor of such a plan. The amendment aroused a storm of protest on the part of many delegates.

"It is useless for an organization of 20,000 members to take direct action," one delegate declared. "We should concentrate first on ways and means of getting the rest of the farmers into the AFU. It is silly on our part to think of establishing a strike fund with 20,000 farmers. That's putting the cart before the horse."

A. D. Olsen, Homeglen, declared "Somebody is trying to knock the teeth out of the AFU and I don't like it. This is the same as sending the boys to the front with machine guns but no bullets. Are we going to be rendered impotent?"

TIME TO BUILD NOW

"Now is the time to build up the action fund, while the money is in our pockets," another delegate stated. "If we go back to the conditions of the hungry 30's we will never build up the fund."

"We can't go very far if we nail the back of our pants to the fence-post," one member remarked on the amendment question.

H. R. Boutilier told the convention the AFU never would have 20,000 members if the union's constitution did not contain a direct action clause.

The amendment received one vote and was declared lost, following which the original motion calling for establishment of the fund was carried.

A second motion setting individual contribution to the strike fund was then brought before delegates. Originally set at 25 cents, it was subjected to an amendment to raise the amount to 50 cents a member.

After some discussion, the 50-cent rate was voted down, and the 25-cent fee was adopted for the coming year.

The original motion erecting the fund declares a non-delivery strike to be the only logical use to which power of the union may be applied, and that any union committed to the policy of using strike-force will sooner or later be forced to test its power. "Legal action may have to be defended or prosecuted as a consequence of strike action, and legal talent of high calibre to compete with legal talent employed by rich and powerful opponents would be costly," it is stated in preamble.

PASS RESOLUTION

Earlier in the evening, the convention passed a resolution asking that the Prairie Farmers' Assistance Act be re-adjusted so that compensation for crop failure is on an individual rather than a township basis.

This motion also asks that the PFAA be extended to cover all crop failure due to natural causes, and that the Dominion government be asked to publish an annual audit of the PFAA.

"The Act should be changed so that a whole township doesn't have to be rained out, flooded out, or hailed out before it applies," a delegate declared.

The motion was amended to require that deductions under the PFAA should not exceed two per cent of crops sold. Any excess of claims over collections at this rate should be paid out of the national treasury.

"We don't want any monkey business. What we want is crop insurance," a delegate said in speaking to the amendment. He said the deduction should not be set at two per cent or five per cent, but it should be enough to cover payments in bad crop years.

The amendment was lost upon vote, following which the original motion carried.

Frank T. Appleby, president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, spoke at the night session on the Hudson's Bay railroad question.

He envisioned a railroad crossing northern Alberta from the Peace River area, running through northern Saskatchewan and connecting with the present Hudson's Bay line.

"You can ship out of Churchill four or five months in the year, and save farmers six cents a bushel on their grain. $123 a carload on livestock and $187 a carload on eggs," Mr. Appleby said.

He asked for AFU support in pressing for use of the Hudson's Bay rail line as a shipping route to the Old Country in the post-war years.

Post-War Survey Committee Helped

Requests for information regarding methods and results of Alberta's Post-War Committee survey of business, farm and household plans for the post-war period have been received from all over the Dominion, Reg. T. Rose, chairman of the survey committee told fellow Rotarians when he addressed the weekly luncheon meeting Thursday in the Macdonald hotel. Mr. Rose said that about 60,000 punch cards would be required to tabulate the returns coming in from more than 10,000 persons being interviewed.

Red Chevron Club Instals Officers

Installation of the new slate of officers for the coming year marked Thursday evening's regular meeting of the 1914 Edmonton Red Chevron Club. Dalton Watson, well-known Edmonton veteran, who has served on the organization's executive for several years, is the new president. He succeeds G. E. H. Hauff.

Other officers are: Immediate past president, Gordon Hauff; first vice-president, R. G. Mosher; second vice-president, R. E. Browne; secretary-treasurer, Godfrey Henderson; padres, the Rev. Canon C. F. A. Clough and Dean A. M. Trendell; band, Andrew Slater; credentials, Fred Mather; sergt.-at-arms, F. T. Taylor. Mr. Mosher is also officer in charge of the color party. Last year's executive committee was returned to office.

A. E. Nightingale, re-elected honorary president, officiated at the installation.

The well-attended meeting made tentative plans for the club's annual Ypres banquet, which will be held in April.

Secretary Henderson reported for the ex-servicemen's rehabilitation committee, and his report was endorsed by the meeting. The committee has been studying provisions for the rehabilitation of veterans of the present war.

P. Chauvet of Legal, Division 1 and T. D. Cunningham, of Alcomdale, Division 2, have been named trustees of the Sturgeon school division. Annual meeting of the division is being held in the Gariepy block, Edmonton, this week.

Sapper Dunn Finds Canada Neat After Cleaning up Krauts' Work

RETURNS HOME—Sgt. Wilfred Brebber, Wetaskiwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brebber, who has arrived home from action in Sicily and Italy, having been wounded on May 23. He enlisted in Edmonton Fusiliers in 1942 and went overseas the following year. His only brother, Grant, who has been serving in Africa, has arrived in England, is expected home shortly.

VEGREVILLE: Sapper R. L. Dunn returned to his home this week, pleased to find that everything here was neat and tidy. Since June, 1940, he had been helping clean up the British Isles after German bombs had played their part in marking up the general landscape.

The soldier, a veteran of the First Great War, was stationed for a considerable length of time in that area of Britain which received the brunt of the luftwaffe's most devastating bombing raids. He recalls seeing hundreds of the intruders on their deadly mission. One Saturday afternoon 21 winged Nazis came over his area in 20 minutes. That night, Dunn and his crew were too busy to observe the Saturday night bath tub ritual.

TOUGH JOB

"It was tough work," Dunn said, speaking of his construction and demolition work. "They kept us pretty busy most of the time. "However, "Rod" Dunn had an unusual treat in his few periods of spare time. His eldest daughter, Cpl. Edna Dunn, now in charge of the RCAF post office in London, kept her spare time free for her Dad and together they saw plenty of the old country.

Prior to returning to Canada, Spr. Dunn was hospitalized for two operations. He came home on a hospital ship, glad to be back, but he's looking forward to the time when Edna returns so the family circle will be complete.

LACOMBE: Forty guests gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Carter to honor them on their 25th wedding anniversary. They have lived in Morningside for many years.

LLOYDMINSTER: Mrs. C. Bexson was re-elected president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion branch. Other officers are Mrs. Clifford, secretary; Mrs. Cawsey, treasurer; Mrs. Deane and Mrs. Dinnie, vice-presidents; and Mrs. Fry, standard bearer.

LLOYDMINSTER: Officers elected by the Red Shield Auxiliary at the annual meeting at the home of Mrs. A. F. Long were: Mrs. Ferguson, president; Mrs. Steenson, vice-president; Mrs. Clarkson, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Oliver, wool convener.

Fairview Pioneer Passes In North

FAIRVIEW: Mrs. E. A. Cummings, old-time resident of the Peace River country, died at the home of her daughter in the Englewood district. She was 91 years old. She moved here from Edmonton in 1917 with her husband, who is now 90.

Surviving are three sons and four daughters. A funeral service was held at the United Church by the Rev. A. D. Carr. Burial was in the Waterhole cemetery.

Silverdale Well Completes Tests

LLOYDMINSTER: Silverdale No. 1 well completed its first continuous 30 days' pumping test this week. With minimum pumping stroke and speed, the well made around 1,500 barrels of oil as pumped, which settled down to a net of 1,186.

The Exelsior refinery at Lloydminster has constructed a grade from the railway to the plant, storage pits and weighing facilities almost completed, and should be ready to receive oil soon.
